Nobel Prize For '47 Goes To Society Of Friends

American and British Committees Receive $39,000 Award for Humanitarian Work

Oslo, Norway, Oct. 31 (AP).—The Nobel Peace Prize for 1947 has been awarded to two Quaker organizations, the American Friends Service Committee (in Philadelphia) and the Service Council of the British Society of Friends, the Norwegian Nobel Committee announced today.

Gunnar Jahn, chairman of the committee elected by the Norwegian Parliament to make the award, said the Society of Friends was selected because of its great humanitarian work.

"This reason is so obvious that further comment ought to be unnecessary," he said, adding:

"It may be noted that the Society of Friends is celebrating the 300th anniversary in this year, and their motto has always been to help people in distress, people who suffer from war and violence.

"Their helping hand also has been given to Norway, where the population in the northern part of the country was in great need immediately after the war ended because the Germans had wasted the country with their scorched earth policy."

Carries $39,000 Prize

Jahn pointed out that the "Norwegian Nobel Committee never gives any specific reason" for an award, which this year includes a monetary prize of approximately $39,000.

The Society of Friends, more generally referred to as Quakers, has been identified with peace and humanitarianism throughout its history. It was founded in England in 1647 by George Fox, and has had close affiliations with the United States since colonial times, notably in the establishment of Pennsylvania in 1681 by William

Penn. Present members of the society include Herbert Hoover, former President.

Although often persecuted in their early days in sections where they constituted a minority, the Quakers persisted in their tenets and now are held in high regard throughout the world as their activities have expanded. In its early history the Society of Friends was a leader in prison reform, abolition of slavery and the care of the insane. In past times the Quakers have attracted considerable attention by their refusal to take oaths, or perform military service.

IT'S NICE TO BE PAID ON TIME

When your payday rolls around you expect to be paid promptly. You wouldn't like it a bit if you were told, "Sorry, come back and I'll pay you tomorrow." And, if you're a business man, you like your customers to pay you promptly.

Your Post carrier boy is a business man, too. He visits you once a month to collect. Why shouldn't he be paid on time too? Remember, his school work goes on just the same during collection period—and he can't afford to call on each customer two, three or even more times in order to get paid.

Please bear these things in mind and have your carrier boy's money ready for him when he comes around on collection night.

Nominations To Be Held Up By President

Decision Is Aimed At Leaving Session Free on Two Issues

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

In an effort to hold partisan fireworks to a minimum in the "emergency" session of Congress starting November 17, President Truman will submit no nominations, controversial or otherwise.

Some 56 major recess appointments in about 23 agencies, made since the last Congress closed in a storm around presidential appointees, thus will go over to the regular January session of the Senate for confirmation.

In addition, several vacancies to which appointments have not been made, will be permitted to remain unfilled until the January session. These include the chairmanship of the Federal Communications Commission, from which Charles R. Denny resigned on October 9, and the post of Federal Housing Expediter, given up yesterday by Frank R. Creedon.

This was learned last night as the Administration moved as far as possible to limit the forthcoming session to the two pressing questions for which it was called: interim aid to Europe and brakes on rising prices.

Second Unity Bid

It was the Administration's second bid for bipartisan cooperation in the session on emergency issues, foreign and domestic. On the eve of his election as Democratic National chairman, Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) suggested both parties rule out "politics" on the boiling price issue as well as foreign aid. The McGrath proposal got a chilly response from Republican Senate boss Robert A. Taft.

Two other explosive questions meanwhile threatened to breach special session peace—revival of the GOP tax reduction bill and the Kem motion to force an investigation of the Kansas City vote frauds.

Senate GOP leaders have decided to "start" work on the tax bill, but have withheld any decision on passage. The Kem motion to force the Kansas City resolution to the floor is still on the Senate calendar, and could be forced up at any time.

Six Key Men Unconfirmed

The last session closed in a blistering row on the Kem resolution as well as presidential appointees. Six important nominations were left unconfirmed. The President subsequently made recess appoint-

U. S. Would Place Palestine Completely on Own by July 1

British Reported Lukewarm to Idea Outlined by Johnson

By Robert Bruskin
Post Reporter

Lake Success, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Complete independence by next July 1 for Jewish and Arab states which are to be carved from Palestine was recommended today by the United States.

Herschel V. Johnson proposed to a United Nations subcommittee that the Jewish and Arab states become responsible for their own public order on the day they achieve independence. The British could arrange, he said, simultaneous transfer of administration, removal of troops, and termination of its mandate.

He suggested also that the United Nations General Assembly, rather than the Security Council as proposed by Russia, become responsible for the partitioning.

The Assembly, he said, would appoint a three-man commission to advise and guide the transfer of sovereignty to the new states. They would work with the British, who would remain responsible for government and order until termination of the mandate.

The commission, he further recommended, would work out a United Nations trusteeship for the City of Jerusalem, which is to remain independent of the two states.

Johnson's recommendations today nullified those he made October 10 for setting up an international constabulary force to maintain order. That would be unnecessary, he declared, if all power for complete sovereignty was transferred at once.

The July 1 date, he added, is desirable but only a suggestion which would need British acceptance.

Arthur Creech-Jones, British Colonial Secretary who brought from London the British announcement that they planned withdrawal from Palestine soon, declined to comment on the American plan. He is leaving for London tomorrow, and it was reported that he was not enthusiastic.

British sources declared the plan as presented meant that British officials and troops would be required to officiate at the partition of Palestine. Although a UN commission might be present, practically, the ugly work of dividing assets and keeping order would fall directly on them.

There was no comment from the Russian delegate who had suggested Security Council supervision of the transfer, presumably because the Soviet or any other

Ramadier's Cabinet Cuts Small Taxes

Income Exemptions Broadened and Some Corporations Freed

By William J. Humphreys

Paris, Oct. 31.—Premier Paul Ramadier's 13-man cabinet, given a precarious new lease on life by yesterday's 300-to-280 vote of confidence, plunges today into the problem of promised financial reform and emerged with a few prizes.

At its first meeting after winning the narrow victory, the government decided to bestow favors, official informants said, on both wage-earners and employers by (1) substantially increasing the income tax exemption rates and (2) eliminating some corporation taxes.

Among suggested changes is one which would increase the ordinary tax exemption from 40,000 francs annually ($333) to 100,000 francs ($833). Another was to eliminate 30 to 40 small, corporation taxes—which produce a revenue of only 60 million francs annually ($500,000). Instead, the Government's reform program stresses the collection of only one corporation tax, probably about 35 per cent of the profits.

Public Safety Director Urged For Arlington in Jury Report

By N. S. Haseltine and Donald Oleson

Fourteen ways to improve efficiency and morale of the Arlington police department are listed in the hitherto undisclosed portion of the supplemental report of the Arlington County grand jury.

Recommendations contained in the report, The Washington Post learned, include:

1. Appointment of a trained, qualified person as director of public safety for Arlington. He would have complete supervision over the police and fire departments and building inspections, and would report directly to the county manager.

2. Organization of a detailed chain of command within the Police Department, with delegation of responsibility clearly defined.

3. Establishment of a police trial board, with sole authority to demote or dismiss members of the police force after proper hearing.

4. Public posting of promotion and suspension lists within the Police Department.

5. Proper briefing of policemen participating in specific acts (such as gambling raids) so that each fully understands his duties. (This provision, it was said, stemmed from the 15-day suspension of County Detective C. B. Pressly following a numbers' raid in Clarendon, on October 7, for permitting the escape of the alleged operator. Pressley said he was under no orders to watch the suspect. Lundberg lifted the suspension after the first week.

6. Establishment of a definite system of promotions within the Police Department, with a merit system to determine promotion and salary increases.

7. Grant of privileges and right

Steel Union Is Defiant Of NLRB

Challenges Rights; UAW Surprises By Filing Oaths And Registration

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

The CIO United Steelworkers yesterday challenged the right of the National Labor Relations Board to dismiss its pending cases because officers of the big union had declined to swear that they were not Communists.

At the same time, the CIO United Auto Workers announced that its executive board had voted to comply with the registration and anti-Communist requirements of the new law. Earlier this week, however, it had filed a protest similar to that of the steelworkers.

The UAW's action came as a surprise. It puts the union in the ranks of the majority of American labor organizations. Most of them, after two months' of hemming and hawing, have agreed to meet the terms of the law.

UMW Is Holdout

With the UAW joining the procession, the only big holdout unions are the AFL United Mine Workers, whose president, John L. Lewis, is adamant in refusing to execute the affidavit; the CIO United Electrical Workers, and the Steelworkers.

And rumors were current yesterday that even the last-named union, headed by CIO President Philip Murray, will soon back down. Otherwise it cannot avail itself of the processes of the law and the services of the NLRB.

Yesterday's protest by the steel union, and announcement of compliance from the auto workers, came at the eleventh hour before a deadline set for last midnight by the NLRB.

Some Extensions

The deadline applied to pending cases brought to the NLRB before the effective date of the Taft-Hartley Act. Some 3500 are on the NLRB books. Those brought by unions whose officers had not executed the anti-Communist oaths by last midnight would be thrown out, the NLRB had ruled.

It granted 30-day extensions, however, to those unions which had made positive attempts to comply but which were not able to meet the time limit.

The Steelworkers' complaint, however, declared that the NLRB had no right to dismiss the old cases. In a petition filed with the NLRB, Steelworkers' General Counsel Lee Pressman argued that

Parachute Flares Ruled Off DC-6's As Fire Hazard

By the United Press

The Civil Aeronautics Board yesterday adopted a regulation authorizing removal of parachute flares—believed to have figured in the Bryce Canyon, Utah, crash last week—from all Douglas DC-6 airplanes.

The flares, carried on the DC-6 at the point where the wing joins the fuselage, are designed to be dropped by parachute to light up the landscape in event of an emergency night landing.

Chairman James M. Landis told the United Press that, while they may not have been the cause, the flares apparently were ignited and increased the intensity of the fire which sent the United Air Lines plane to the ground in flames with a loss of 52 lives.

AS TO WHETHER the Soviet Union seeks security or expansion, I suppose the Soviets themselves, in analyzing their motives, would find it difficult to tell exactly where security ends and expansion begins. And if they did know the dividing line, I am certain they would not admit it. In considering this question, I keep thinking of the kind of people—and many of us know them—who buy the house or farm adjoining theirs for protection. The difficulty always is that there is another adjoining house or farm. So it is with the Soviets who think the governments adjoining the Soviet Union or its satellites must be "friendly governments" for their security. The chief difference is that the Soviets do not buy the adjoining territory and they have no scruples about violating laws and pledges to acquire the property they want for security.

Frequently people ask whether, in the name of security, the Soviets intend to dominate all of continental Europe. I think they want in all European states a sufficient number of organized Communists so that they can dictate the policies of these states. I do not think they want to take over all European governments now. They fear the people of western Europe would not accept the form of government existing in the Soviet Union. They realize also that in most of those countries they have not yet trained leaders who could make such governments succeed, and failure would impair their prestige all over the world. For the present, while developing local leaders, they are satisfied to hide their time. By the threat of strikes and by encouraging discontent, they can in many states exert power without having responsibility. Greece is apparently their first objective. They are likely to seek next, through the usual infiltration method, control of the Italian government. This would be because of the military effect it would have on Greece and Turkey. I do not doubt that their ultimate goal is to dominate, in one way or another, all of Europe.

In determining our course of action, Karl Marx is helpful. In 1853, about the Czar's demands on Turkey, he wrote:

"It would have been impossible for Russia to make more extensive demands upon Turkey after a series of signal victories. . . . If

Byrd Committee Puts Relief Outlays At 19 to 20 Billions

A Joint Congressional Committee, headed by Senator Harry Flood Byrd (D., Va.), yesterday estimated United States aid to foreign countries since the war's start at 19 to 20 billion dollars.

Byrd's estimate, released as Congress awaited Administration figures on the long-range cost of the Marshall Plan, included expected outlays for interim aid but left out Marshall Plan over-all costs.

Byrd estimated some 4½ billion dollars has already been authorized for foreign aid disbursement in the current fiscal year, exclusive of maintaining American military forces in occupied areas and elsewhere.

Of the 4½ billion current authorization, he said nearly 60 million dollars has been "earlites."

This statement was challenged by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) who said it "gives an utterly incorrect impression."

O'Mahoney said the report didn't show "a single dollar" of further assistance going to Russia and the only satellite countries listed as down for further aid were Poland and Finland.

O'Mahoney said the Marshall Plan is designed to restore the productive capacity of Europe and "as a result to bring about an early end to relief contributions from the United States."

"The sooner, therefore, that we make it possible for the people of Europe to support themselves, the sooner the drain on our own resources will be ended."

Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) said, however, that Byrd's figures "should cause us to review very, very carefully before we take any action."

Shortage of Dollars May Limit Ability; Italy Sounds Plea

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.

"Marshall Planning" entered a new stage yesterday with the news that the United States was sounding Canada on her ability to help Europe.

The State Department disclosed that high Canadian officials were holding "continuing discussions" here on financial problems, including Canada's possible role in the European recovery program.

First Discussions

It has been evident all along, to Americans and Europeans alike, that the United States could not possibly supply all of Europe's needs. But until now there had been no direct discussion of the subject between the United States and any of the great supplying countries among its hemisphere neighbors.

The Canadians are understood to have come to Washington at their own request. They include Clifford Clark, Deputy Minister of Finance; Hector Mackinnon, chairman of the Canadian Tariff Board, and John J. Deutsch, director of Economic Relations.

Much more is involved in these discussions than the state of Canadian cereal crops or the ability of Canadian factories to turn out reconstruction goods for Europe.

Dollar Pinch Felt

Canada, like western Europe itself, is caught in the dollar shortage. She is already sending most of her wheat to Great Britain, at prices far lower than present American prices, and is getting paid half in sterling and half in dollars. The British treasury is now renegotiating this payment arrangement in hopes of conserving its own fast-dwindling dollar supply.

Letter Tells Romanian Premier Accused Maniu Saved His Life

Premier Petru Groza of Romania was reminded yesterday that he probably owes his life to Juliu Maniu, the Peasant Party leader whom he is now trying for treason.

The reminder came in a dramatic letter from Pamfil Riposanu, until recently counsellor of the Romanian Legation here, a personal friend of both Groza and Maniu.

The letter, appealing for Maniu's life, recalled the days when Groza was in prison under sentence of the Nazi-dominated Antonescu regime in Romania. Two of Groza's friends who were jailed with him were shot; Groza himself was released with Maniu's help.

"As I stood by you at that time," Riposanu wrote, "and visited you many times clandestinely in the Malmaison Prison, and at the same time visited Mr. Maniu nearly

"'Mr. Maniu, no one and nothing shall ever separate us in the future.'"

The letter told Groza that there were national as well as personal reasons why he should "refrain from any action" against Maniu, now on trial for his life with 18 of his supporters.

"The placing of Juliu Maniu on the bench of the accused means implicitly the placing of the entire Romanian nation on the bench," the letter said.

Milk Price Is Boosted 1½ Cents to Record High

21-Cent Level Set In District and Maryland After Va. Board Ruling

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

A record price of 21 cents a quart for milk delivered to Greater Washington homes becomes effective today—a 1½-cent increase.

Most stores also will boost their milk prices 1½ cents. In addition, cream price rises for Maryland and Washington have been announced by several leading dairies, to meet cream prices in Virginia.

The series of boosts followed announcement yesterday by the Virginia Milk Commission of its decision on an increase requested by the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association.

The producers requested that the farm level price of $5.60 per hundredweight of milk be increased to $6.06½. The commission's decision set the price at $6.06.

Distributors Add Half Cent

This, in effect, was a 1 cent per quart increase. When it was discussed at a hearing in Alexandria on October 17 the dairy distributors served notice they would have to add to it an additional half cent, to pay part of their own increased costs.

Action by the Virginia Commission has no legal effect on prices outside the State. However, dairymen and producers previously made it clear that any increase in Virginia would also become effective in the District and Maryland, where prices are not controlled.

The commission's ruling set a floor of 21 cents a quart for home-delivered milk and 19 cents for milk bought at retail stores in nearby Virginia.

A cream price increase was not even broached at the hearings, and last night many dairy officials were computing new price lists.

Dairymen said cream prices are being increased in Washington and Maryland to meet the present Virginia prices, unaffected in the commission's decision, and also because "there have been grounds for an increase in cream prices for a long time."

Justice Probe Continues

New listings for coffee and sour cream will be from 1½ to 2 cents higher on half pints, while one dairy quoted an increase of 10 cents a quart on whipping cream, previously priced at $1.20.

CTC Pays Up; Fare Increase To Be Sought

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Capital Transit Co. feels it should get higher fares from District bus and streetcar riders to pay for higher wages ordered yesterday.

This was revealed by a company official after an arbitration panel awarded the company's 4500 employes a pay increase of 15 cents an hour. Workers will receive a back increase dating from July 1 under the award.

The company official predicted that CTC would ask for a 1 to 5 cent increase in the present 10-cent fare. Also, the company is thinking of scrapping the weekly pass. The company feels it can withdraw the pass without securing permission from the Public Utilities Commission since the pass was instituted voluntarily by the company in 1933, the official said.

The award also gave the workers other improved conditions which the company estimates are equivalent to 5 cents an hour increase in wages.

Cost of the award, CTC President E. D. Merrill said, would be $2,310,000, of which $1,639,500 would be for direct wage increases.

"Capital Transit does not have the income to meet the obligations imposed on it by the award," Merrill said. "It completely wipes out the net income and puts the com-

Poultryless Days Saving Explained

Fowl Production Drops With Demand And Grain Is Conserved, Official Says

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

How does poultryless Thursday save grain?

That question was raised at a meeting of the District Citizens Food Conservation Committee Thursday and went unanswered. Yesterday the President's Citizens Food Committee gave the local group a reply to the frequent query.

The chairman of the District group, James E. Colliflower, released the statement "to dispel the doubts that exist in many of our minds" and rally public support to the program.

The answer to the query lies in a chain of events starting with the voluntary abstaining from eating poultry on Thursday, the committee pointed out.

Here's Explanation

If District residents skip poultry on Thursday, this will reduce demand. This in turn will force farmers to decrease the size of their flocks, which will cut down the consumption of the grain needed for overseas relief, the committee explanation said.

But then the argument is raised that if the poultry is not consumed, the birds will use up additional grain, the committee said. This is not true since "Government statistics show that slaughtering of hens is now taking place at approximately normal levels," Colliflower pointed out.

Another argument is raised then that if the poultry is killed there is insufficient cold storage space. This is nedied by the committee, which quoted a statement by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson that only 81 per cent of national cold storage space is now in use.

"If we can cut down on the purchase and consumption of eggs it will mean that the demand for eggs will be reduced. As soon as the demand is lessened, this, too, will mean that the farmer can have smaller flocks," the local chairman pointed out.

Another View

In Richmond, Va., however, a spokesman for the poultry industry declared that as a result of the poultryless Thursday program, the Government may have to step into the market and buy turkeys to hold up prices.

Howard W. Zigler, president of the Virginia State Poultry Federation, announced that the Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative, Inc., had informed him that they had notified the Commodity Credit Corporation in Washington that Rockingham was beginning to pack medium-sized turkeys which they expect the CCC to purchase under the turkey price-support program.

Zigler said the market condition resulted from the food conservation drive and noted, "The Government will now be required to buy turkey with the taxpayers' money, but the taxpayer will be denied the right to eat this turkey."

Clark to Issue Speculation Report Soon

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

The Justice Department's report on speculation in commodities will be ready in "a few days," Attorney General Clark revealed yesterday.

At the same time, grain and cotton prices on the Chicago exchange again turned upward on the strength of an announced boost in December grain export allocations over those for November. Hog prices continued downward, bringing as much as 25 cents a hundred pounds lower at Chicago and 25 to 50 cents at St. Louis.

Prospects of increased sugar prices faced housewives today with expiration of price controls at midnight last night. While some brokers expected no increase because of a world surplus, others pointed out that the sugar price normally is based on the United States commodity price index which has increased materially since sugar prices were frozen.

On another part of the food front, reports reached the Citizens Food Committee that some distillers had run full blast after agreeing to a 60-day whisky-making holiday. The result is, food committee officials were told, that more grain has been used in the interim than will be saved by the holiday.

Results of October distilling will not be known until the December report of the Alcohol Tax Unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau is issued. If an increase in consumption is shown, a committee spokesman said, efforts may be made to extend the holiday.

Along the same lines, Harry L. Lourie, vice president of the National Association of Alcoholic Beverage Importers, said yesterday he had protested to the State Department a reported proposal to ban imports of Scotch whisky during the 60-day distilling holiday. He said the proposal was made by Charles Luckman, chairman of the Food Committee, and would only impair the British dollar position without saving any grain.

Clark's statement on commodity speculation was made to reporters after leaving an 80-minute Cabinet session at the White House. He said the investigation was centered around operations on the Chicago, Kansas City and Minneapolis exchanges.

Clark said that if the inquiry indicated a violation of law, the evidence would be presented to a grand jury. Otherwise, he said, he proposed to bring any bad practices to public attention through a report to the President or to Congress.

The investigation was announced recently by President Tru[illegible] at a news conference. Mr. T[illegible] at the time decried what [illegible]led gambling in grains and f[illegible]

Clark said the investi[illegible] was not discussed at the Cat[illegible]eeting, which he and Se[illegible] of Labor Schwellenbach described as routine.

Milk Price Goes Up 1½ Cents To Record High in District

was that the department is "still continuing its study."

In its decision, the Virginia Milk Commission said the increases granted were based on higher costs of feed, hay, labor and other production needs.

The extension division of Virginia Polytechnic Institute has been requested by the commission to conduct a comprehensive survey of the cost of producing milk for the Arlington-Alexandria market, and if conditions warrant it, said the commission, prices may be reduced.

Used Producer Figures

Dr. T. R. Snavely, chairman of the commission, said last night that the cost-basis for yesterday's increase was the producers' own figures. Under the Virginia Milk and Cream Act, the commission has to withdraw its marketing regulations upon application of a majority of the producers involved.

Chestnut Farms-Chevy Chase Dairy, largest in this area and biggest customer of the producers association, was first to announce its new price listings, effective today.

Based on the 1½-cent increase on grade "A" milk, the price list also raises cream the same amount, to 20½ cents a half-pint and 38 cents a pint, the current Virginia price.

Thompson's Dairy announced similar prices, ranging up to 23 cents for the top grade of milk, Golden Guernsey, and 2 cents a pint for coffee and sour cream, boosting that to 38 cents also.

Store Chain Undecided

A spokesman for Safeway Stores said prices there "would depend on the competition—that's our standard policy." He expressed doubt that new prices would be ready by today.

Highland Farms, which operates 69 stores in the area, and now sells milk in the stores at 17 cents, will increase the price to 19 cents, said general manager R. A. McFarland. "We can't deal in the half-cent figure," he said, adding that the firm is now preparing new cream prices but that no increases are likely to be effective before Sunday.

Embassy Dairy, which does not buy milk from the producers' association, "will be forced to follow along with the others," said A. B. Fletcher, general manager. At Model Farms Dairy, an official said price listings were not ready, but "we expect to make the rise."

9. Establishmentof a job placement system with aptitude tests to determine the type of work for which each policeman is best suited.

10. Preparation of a police manual of police department policies.

11. A study to determine size and type of police force needs in Arlington County.

12. A study to determine a police department salary scale in line with salaries paid police officers in adjoining areas.

13. Immediate calling of the $1000 bond put up for Louis Klein, formerly of 1930 N. Adams st., Arlington. Klein, who had pleaded guilty to operation of a lottery, on May 23, 1946, disappeared before his sentencing. The bond, put up by A. B. Procise, vice president and treasurer of Arlington Trust Co., had never been ordered forfeited.

14. Careful police study of evidence seized in the numbers' raid on Russell "Peanuts" Scheele, 47, Arlington gambler, on October 17, for possible leads on other gaming activities within the county. It was the raid on Scheele's place which led to the grand jury investigation. Scheele received a sentence of five months in jail and a $750 fine.

The program report was rejected Thursday by Judge Walter T. McCarthy, Arlington County Circuit Court, as "beyond the scope of the court's authority." He termed the study "worthwhile," however.

It had been presented by Jury Foreman Earl Kirby, Arlington automobile dealer, to supplement the jury's finding of "insufficient evidence of collusion between police and gamblers in Arlington County," following seven days of jury sessions on such charges.

The rejected report had been later turned over to Arlington County Manager A. T. Lundberg. Lundberg said he had it under study and might release it on Monday.

Informed of the general content of the report, Daniel A. Dugan, Arlington County board member, who had asked the grand jury investigation, said he was "in general agreement" with the recommendations.

"The Arlington County board should now confer with the judge of the Circuit Court with a view to effecting some of the changes," he declared. "The county board should also request the Virginia State Legislature to relieve the Circuit Court of the power to appoint police."

One Dying Every 3 Minutes In Egypt's Cholera Epidemic

By Sam Souki

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 31 (U.P.)—Cholera was killing Egyptians at the rate of one every three minutes today.

The man who fell writhing in a street of El Korein, an isolated village, east of the Nile Delta, September 22 was the first of more than 15,000 persons stricken with the dread disease.

The ministry of healht's nightly communique reported 364 deaths from cholera during the last 24 hours and 714 persons hospitalized. This was a decline compared with yesterday's figures which listed 402 dead and 690 hospitalized in that 24-hour period.

Quarantine and anti-cholera vaccine are the only defense. No one could leave Egypt today without first submitting to an exhaustive medical examination. Planes were arriving daily from all over the world with the needed vaccine.

Authorities are grimly fighting to contain the worst outbreak of the disease in Egypt in more than 60 years. Until last month, there had been oly five cases reported in the past 45 years and all in 1918.

Today, this correspondent flew in a United States Army Dakota transport which sprayed 800 gallons of DDT over the Cairo slum area of Boulac.

We roared over dirty squalid mud huts, over roofs littered with years of rubbish until Lieut. E. C. Folgate of Washington, D. C., and Lieut. Homer Bell of Crane, Tex., brought us over the "target" area.

Then T/Sergt. Fred Soza of Phoenix, Ariz., turned a crank which released a mixture of 8 per cent DDT and Kerosene, designed to kill cholera-bearing flies.

American Dakotas are helping the Egyptian air force to halt the epidemic. They are commanded by Maj. Charles Farran, Santiago, Calif.

The afternoon newspaper Bourse Egyptiene reported that an Egyptian plane hit a telephone line and made a crash landing near the village of Vinchat Radouan not far from Cairo while spraying DDT. The pilot was injured slightly.

Dewey Chides Democrats on Philosophy

New York, Oct. 31 (U.P.)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said tonight that the Republican Party has demonstrated "that the whole philosophy by which this country has been run for so many years in the recent past is an exploded myth of political demagoguery."

Speaking at a testimonial dinner for Livingston Platt, Westchester County Republican chairman, Dewey, generally considered a candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, reviewed the work accomplished under his administration compared to the Democratic Party, which ruled in New York State for 22 years.

"We have demonstrated that government can be both solvent and progressive, and that we can create a good atmosphere in which business can flourish with the result that there is money enough to support the kind of social progress every good American wants to see. That is a fundamental of my own political philosophy and I believe our party has proved that it works," he said.

"Perhaps even more important," the State executive said, "is the fact that we have been able to govern this great State without going from crisis to crisis.

"Only bunglers and incompetents fail to see the crisis coming and meet it before it becomes one," he said.

As an example, Dewey explained, his State is "leading every State and the Federal Government . . . in the housing program."

Scientists Deny Dry Ice Caused Storm to Return

By the United Press

Government scientists emphatically denied yesterday that dry ice bombardment of this month's Florida hurricane might have caused it to reverse its course and strike the coast of Georgia.

Officials of the United States Weather Bureau, the Army and the Navy took sharp issue with Grady Norton, chief forecaster of the Miami bureau, who had made the suggestion.

The Weather Bureau said only 80 pounds of dry ice were dropped and the experiment "was so limited in scale that it could not possibly have had any effect on the general character of the storm."

The bureau said other hurricanes in the past have behaved just as erratically.

Largest Plane Preparing for First Taxi Test

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 31 (AP).—The world's largest land-based aircraft, Consolidated Vultee's six-ngined XC-99, today moved under its own power for the first time.

Russell Rogers, flight test chief, put the giant plane through extensive engine runs in preparation for first taxi tests next week.

The maiden flight is scheduled shortly before Thanksgiving, according to company officials.

The double-decked XC-99 will be able to carry 400 troops, or 335 litter patients, or 100,000 pounds of cargo in its 182½-foot long fuselage. Wingspan is 230 feet. Range with a reduced payload is 8000 miles.

Hearing Halt Laid To Move by Reds

Member Reports Committee Adjourned To Thwart Proposed D. C. Demonstration

By International News Service

A member of the House Un-American Activities Committee revealed yesterday that the Hollywood hearings were suddenly ended Thursday to thwart a proposed Communist demonstration in Washington.

The member, Representative McDowell (R., Pa.) asserted that the committee learned that "some of the biggest Communists in the country were converging on Washington, and planning some kind of demonstration."

He indicated the demonstration was aired at disrupting the committee's probe into Red influences at work in the film industry.

That and Other Reasons

McDowell said the House group felt that there was no need to give these Communists "a chance to pursue their usual tactics."

He asserted that other reasons for the temporary halt in the hearings were:

1. The committee felt that it had proved there were "some very serious Communists in Hollywood," and that it had gone far enough in its hearings to eliminate any charges that "hostile" witnesses were refused a chance to testify.

2. The motion picture industry, through its spokesmen, had shown it was making a "sincere aftempt" to clean up the industry and had indicated that the producers themselves were "in the clear."

3. It was learned on Thursday morning that some of the "hostile" witnesses were not present to be heard.

4. The committee members themselves were "worn out" by the nine days of hearings.

Probe to Continue Soon

Committee Chairman Thomas (R., N. J.) promised to resume the inquiry "in the near future" either in Washington or Los Angeles.

At that time, Thomas said, 68 people prominent in Hollywood will be confronted with evidence allegedly connecting them with the Communist Party or Communist front organizations.

The Washington hearings, spotlighted by the citation for contempt of 10 "reluctant" witnesses who declined to state whether they are Communists, had been scheduled to continue through the week.

Briton Won't Comment On Alleged Red Link

London, Oct. 31 (AP).—George Eltenton declined to comment today on testimony before the House Un-American Activities Subcommittee in Washington purporting to link him with an attempt to obtain United States atomic secrets for the Soviet Union.

Eltenton, reached by telephone at Thornton, England, where he is employed in the Shell refining and marketing laboratories, said: "I have no comment to make on such testimony."

"However, concerning the committee's work in general," he continued, "it doesn't seem to be sticking very closely to facts."

Chevalier Denies Seeking Atom Data

San Francisco, Oct. 31 (AP).—Haakon Chevalier, mentioned yesterday in testimony before the House Un-American Activities Subcommittee in Washington as having sought atomic information in 1942 from J. Robert Oppenheimer, denied in a Call Bulletin interview today that he talked to the professor with any view of obtaining information.

Chevalier, then a French teacher at the University of California, was named by Louis Russell, former FBI operative, as the man George Charles Eltenton asked to get highly secret atom information from Dr. Oppenheimer, a professor at the University of California.

Chevalier said:

"I did not approach Prof. Oppenheimer with a view of obtaining any kind of information.

"I simply reported to him that I had had a conversation with Eltenton, and told him what Eltenton had said to me.

"Mr. Oppenheimer merely dismissed the subject.

"At the time I discussed this matter with Prof. Oppenheimer, I was not aware of any security phase.

"Mr. Eltenton is a chemist and Prof. Oppenheimer is a physicist. It would have been merely an exchange of information on an interesting problem.

"At the time it was just a scientific problem, nothing else."

Russell told the subcommittee that in 1942 Peter Ivanov, vice consul and secretary of the Soviet Consulate in San Francisco, offered to pay Eltenton to obtain information regarding "highly secret work" at the University of California radiation laboratory.

Chevalier, no longer connected with the university, is now a writer and translator.

Eltenton Reported As With Red Institute

San Francisco, Oct. 31 (INS).—George Charles Eltenton, mentioned as an "emissary" in a Russian attempt to get information on atomic experiments a he University of California, was disclosed today to have spent some time at the institute of chamical physics in Leningrad.

A spokesman a the Shell development laboratory, Emeryville, Calif., said Eltenton came from the Leningrad institute nine years ago, it was not known whether he had taught or studied at the instiue.

The Shell spokesman said Eltenton was employed as a physicist at Emeryville, but left last October 10 to take a position with the Shell refining and markeing company laboratory at Thornton, England.

Eltenton was said to be 42 years old, and a native of Manchester, England.

Court Refuses to Bar Philadelphia Red Rally

Philadelphia, Oct. 31 (U.P.).—Federaf Judge Guy K. Bard, with apparent reluctance, today granted an injunction preventing Philadelphia from interfering with a Progressive Citizens of America meeting at Independence Hall square.

Judge Bard said that much as he "loathed and despised" communism, he thought it would be a "mistake" to prevent the meeting.

City Solicitor Frank Truscott said the city would appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court for a supersedeas to halt the meeting.

The PCA's eastern Pennsylvania chapter announced that addresses would be made by the 19 so-called "unfriendly witnesses" who testified at the House Un-American Activities Committee investigation of communism in Hollywood.

Speakers listed to appear included Film Actor Larry Parks, and eight Hollywood writers cited by the committee for contempt of Congress.

Counsel for the PCA asked the injunction, after Nathan H. Rambo, city property bureau chairman, refused a permit to hold the "indignation" meeting at the national shrine.

MENTIONED—George Charles Eltenton (left) and Haakon Chevalier (right) were named by Louis J. Russell, a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee's investigating staff, as the men who attempted to obtain information regarding "highly secret work" at the University of California's radiation laboratory from atom bomb expert Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer. Russell identified Chevalier as a former University of California professor and Eltenton as a former resident of Russia

Secret Army Plan to Resist Russia Alleged at Maniu Trial

Bucharest, Oct. 31 (AP).—A fantastic secret plan for reorganization of the Romanian army to be used for eventual resistance against the Russians in which the Soviets were referred to as "Germans was read to the court today in the treason trial of Peasant Party Leader Juliu Maniu.

Col. Steffan Stoica, one of Maniu's 18 codefendants, immediately denied knowledge of the plan when called to the stand. Stoica formerly was secretary general of the Military Production Ministry under Ion Antonescu who ruled Romania under the Germans.

Vasile Serdici, press chief of the Peasant Party, testified that Maniu asked the British last March to apply pressure that would oust the Communist-favored Petru Groza government.

Serdici, a defendant, said Maniu's request was made to Adrian Holman, British political representative, but that Holman replied Britain had too many other commitments in the Mediterranean, Germany and Austria and that Romania was among the least of her responsibilities.

Maniu, veteran Peasant Party leader, himself on the stand a large part of the day denying the government charges, got into the record the statement that it was through his intervention that President Truman made available food allotments to starving Moldavians last February.

He said the reason several members of his party and other opposition leaders attempted to fly from Bucharest last July, when they were arrested, was because they wanted to lodge a protest in Washington that the Moscow agreement was not being observed.

That agreement among the Foreign Ministers of Russia, Britain and the United States provided that the Peasant and Liberal Parties should be represented in the Romanian government and that free elections should be held not later than May, 1946.

(Two former Romanian Foreign Ministers, Grigore Niculescu-Buzesti and Constantin Visoianu, who escaped Romania a year ago, arrived in New York Friday. They are defendants in abstentia. Asked if he thought they would be convicted, Buzesti answered, "yes, of course." He denied charges that United States officals had helped them escape.)

Maniu declared he was opposed to violent overthrow of the government, denied he had formed a military organization or asked armed foreign intervention, and denied he had organized a national resistance movement. He said he never had discussed with United States Minister Burton Y. Berry the formation of an exile government.

Truman Will Receive Highest Grange Award

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 31 (AP).—The National Grange today announced it would honor President Truman with its highest award, the degree of ceres, during its national convention here November 13.

Grange officials said the President would accept the award personally and make an address the following day, but the White House said no such appearance was on the President's schedule.

Parties Gird For British Ballot Test

London, Oct. 31 (AP).—British politicians made eleventh hour appeals today for support on the eve of municipal elections which will test the strength of Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government.

Elections in England and Wales tomorrow and in Scotland Tuesday are for new borough councilmen, but representatives of all parties agreed the real issue is national—how the people feel about Labor after its two and a half years in power.

Campaigning was conducted with some of the heat that marks a full-scale national election.

The voting will be against a background of a deepening economic crisis, with new cuts in the food ration—already skimpier than during the war—tobacco imports, and in the rehousing program, a major plank in Labor's 1945 election platform.

There will be voting in such industrial centers as Birmingham, Manchester and Leeds, but not in London. People of the predominantly anti-Labor rural areas also are not voting.

After the 1946 elections in the boroughs voting tomorrow and Tuesday, Laborites held 1049 seats in borough councils, Conservatives 647, Liberals 96, Communists one, and Independents 534. Many "Independents" were Conservative Party members.

British Labor Opens House of Lords Attack

London, Oct. 31 (U.P.).—The Labor Government today opened its attack on the Conservative-packed House of Lords, when Home Secretary James Chuter Ede introduced in Commons a bill to amend the Parliament Act of 1911.

The bill was presented in behalf of Prime Minister Attlee, and was given its first reading. Normally, debate will come on the second reading within a few weeks.

Labor seeks to reduce to one year, instead of two, the time the Lords may hold up legislation by defeating Commons bills.

War Criminal Move by Reds Beaten in U .N.

(By a Post Reporter)

Flushing Meadows, N. Y., Oct. 31. Attempts by the Soviet bloc to get control over anyone it branded as a war criminal were defeated overwhelmingly by th eUnited Nations today.

The General Assembly rejected by a vote of 40 to 7 a Yugoslav resolution aimed directly at the United States, Britain, France and their displaced persons camps in Germany. It called for extradition of all persons accused of being war criminals and traitors to the country in which the crimes were committed.

However, the Assembly approved by 42 to 7, a British substitute which calls on countries demanding surrender of alleged war criminals and traitors to support those demands with sufficient evidence to establish a prima facia case of guilt. It provides also that their trials should be boverned by the "principles of justice, law and evidence."

Vishinsky Charges Ill Faith

The decision did not please Andrei Vishinsky of Russia, a Russian prosecutor before the war. He accused the United States and Britain of violating international agreements.

"You are obligated by virtue of agreements to hand over to us all persons whom we demand," he said. "Our courts will sift the innocent from the guilty."

He also accused the United States and Britain of using "mechanical majorities" to "railroad" all their proposals through the United Nations and to reject all proposals of the "Slav minority."

Hector McNeil, British Minister of State, accused the Soviet block of using the opportunity to make further propaganda against the United States and Britain. He warned against its tendency to lump all displaced persons who are opposed to a Communist regime as actual war criminals.

Oct. 24 Made "U. N. Day"

Charles Fahy recounted American and British pioneering in the war crime trials and added that the United States would never recognize political opposition as evidence of war crimes.

The Assembly also adopted unanimously the formal establishment of October 24 as United Nations day throughout the world.

It approved also the agreement made between the United States and the United Nations and authorized Secretary-General Trygve Lie to put it into effect formally. The agreement makes the U. N. headquarters "inviolable" and gives it certain immunities.

Bryan Released In $1000 Bond In Traffic Death

Fred A. Bryan, Fairfax County (Va.) Republican chairman, was released in $1000 bond yesterday after being charged with homicide in the traffic death of Lemuel B. Morris, Republican candidate for county supervisor from Providence district.

Bryan appeared at the Fairfax Court House yesterday to accept service of the warrant. Morris died Monday of injuries suffered in a head-on collision of two cars Saturday evening when he was driving with Bryan. Witnesses at the inquest testified that Bryan's car had been weaving down the road and that he had a strong odor of alcohol on his brath.

A preliminary hearing has been set for December 3. The drunken-driving charge has been continued indefinitely.

Chief City Of Kashmir Is Menaced

New Delhi, Oct. 31 (AP).—Royal Air Force observers reported tonight that Moslem invaders of Kashmir appeared to be in such strength that they might capture Srinagar, the capital.

Seven RAF planes completed the evacuation of all British who wanted to leave the predominantly Moslem state whose Hindu maharajah acceded to India last weekend in a bid for protection against the invaders.

An RAF informant said truckloads of reinforcements had been seen traveling toward the battlefield, 15 to 20 miles west of Srinagar.

A communique tonight from the India government, which has sent Sikh regulars by air transport to defend Kashmir, said there had been no change in the situation in the last 24 hours. The two battalions originally sent are being reinforced, the communique said, and fighter aircraft of the Indian Air Force carried out extensive reconnaissance.

The New Delhi statesman reported that the Moslem Dominion of Pakistan has refused to recognize Kashmir's accession to India.

The India-Pakistan Joint Defense Council is to meet at Lahore in Pakistan tomorrow, bringing together Gov. Gen. Mahomed Ali Jinnah and Premier Liaquat Ali Kahn of Pakistan and Governor General Mountbatten and Premier Jawaharlal Nehru of India.

Aside from a general discussion of Kashmir, it is expected India will propose that Kakistan close the roads into Kashmir, blocking reinforcements for the irregular invaders.

Immunity Waiver Sought In Hungary

Budapest, Hungary, Oct. 31 (AP).—The Hungarian people's attorney asked Parliament today to waive the immunity and provide for the "provisional arrest" of Zoltan Pfeiffer, a Parliament member and leader of the anti-Communist Hungarian Independence Party.

All Budapest newspapers said the charge against Pfeiffer was aiding one Janos Orban to escape "legal penalty" for using "forged documents" covering his whereabouts.

Meanwhile, a well-informed Hungarian said he had heard "from a member of the political police" that the arrest of Miss Elizabeth P. Pallos, American citizen and secretary of the Associated Press Bureau in Budapest, was "connected with Pfeiffer Party affairs."

Miss Pallos has been held incommunicado in an undisclosed prison since Monday night.

The informant recalled that Joszef Varga, Pfeiffer's secretary, was arrested ten days ago "on political charges." He said police had been trying to learn from Varga what persons in the Pfeiffer party gave out "political information" to the American press.

Russia Wants to Control All of Europe, Byrnes Says

the other powers hold firm, Russia is sure to retire in a very decent manner."

Choice of Action

SHOULD the Soviet government get the impression that the United States and other members of the United Nations will only voice protests and will do nothing, Russia will continue the pursuit of these historic objectives. The Soviet government will do as it did shortly after the Yalta Conference in connection with Romania: it will take over a government and then say the matter has been settled and there is no excuse for further discussion.

But, on the other hand, if it is made to realize now that if it commits an act of aggression, we will appeal immediately to the Security Council of the United Nations; if we make it clear that a Soviet veto in the Security Council will bring a call upon the other United Nations to act collectively to support and enforce the principles of the Charter—if these things are made clear, I do not believe the Soviets will violate the integrity of Iran, Turkey, Greece, Italy, or any other country.

For many reasons the Soviets do not want war now. They will, I believe, "retire in a very decent manner." But if the other powers do not "hold firm" then, as Marx warned us of the czarist Russians, "conquest follows conquest and annexation follows annexation."

We must not indulge in idle threats. We must not start anything we do not intend to finish. We must meet aggression and pressure with firm resistance. At the same time, we must be just and objective in our analysis of each situation. We should always keep the hand of friendship extended. And we should constantly make clear our earnest desire to live at peace with our neighbors.

Stalin's Words

SOVIET policy, as it stands today, is fairly well revealed by the historic record I have cited. I should like to point to one other guidepost. It is the speech Stalin made to his Communist Party comrades at the time of the first postwar election — February 9, 1946. A speech on such an occasion and to such an audience is a far more reliable guide, I believe, than the statements made to visiting Americans and foreign correspondents. In it Stalin had this to say of the future:

"I have no doubt that if we render the necessary assistance to our scientists they will be able not only to overtake but also in the very near future to surpass the achievements outside the boundaries of our country. As far as plans for a longer period are concerned, the party intends to organize a mighty upsurge of national economy which will enable us to increase the level of our production, for instance, threefold as compared with the prewar level.

"To achieve this, we must endeavor to see that our industry produces 50 million tons of pig iron per year; 60 million tons of steel; 500 million tons of coal and 60 million tons of oil.

"Only under such conditions will our country be insured against any eventuality. Perhaps three new Five-Year Plans will be required to achieve this, if not more. But it can be done and we must do it."

Time is not all on the side of the Soviet government.

In seeking to answer the question, "What are they like?" I have said nothing of the Russian people. I have spoken only of the Russian leaders. They are the only Russians I know. Few Americans have been able to really learn much about the Russian people.

In evaluating present Russian policy, we can ignore the mass of Russians; they have no more influence on Soviet foreign policy today than they did under the Czars. But in considering future policy, we must not ignore them. They are, I believe, our hope. I cannot believe that the Russian peasant, who fought with such valor to defend his own home and land, really wants to impose foreign rule on people like himself. I cannot believe that the Russian worker, who only a few years ago emerged from conditions approaching slavery, would knowingly deprive other workers in other lands of their freedom.

Time Enough?

I ONCE said "there is no iron curtain that the aggregate sentiments of mankind cannot penetrate." I believe that. And I also believe there is a reasonable chance that we have enough time at our disposal to bring these sentiments to bear on the people and the leaders of the Soviet Union.

I also have said that "we must guard against the belief that delays or setbacks in achieving our objective make armed conflict inevitable." It is one of the beliefs held by the Soviet leaders that makes our task so difficult. But we will never be able to rid them or the rest of the world of that belief if we ourselves become its victims.

Neither is time necessarily on the Russian side in the non-Soviet countries.

Today the Soviets have armies in Germany, Austria, Poland, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Manchuria. An occupation army is an idle army and an idle army is a bad army. The very purpose of retaining soldiers in a foreign country is to restrict the lives and liberties of the people of that country. People who want to be free resent the presence of occupation troops and they grow to hate the country that keeps them there. They grow also to hate, perhaps even more intensely, the puppets who are kept in office by a foreign army. As long as the army is there, the people are cowed into submission. But when the Red army leaves, the legacy of hatred it leaves behind will mean a difficult and uncertain future for the puppets in government and in the militia.

Depend on U. N.

THE SOVIET government cannot indefinitely find reasons for keeping troops in these states. Five treaties of peace already have been concluded. The Soviet Union has not yet ratified the treaties, but I think it will. Our Senate did not ratify them until four months after they were submitted. When they are ratified, it will be difficult for the Soviets to postpone for long the reduction in occupation forces that these treaties require. These states then become eligible for admission to the United Nations. Once they are members, it is then the obligation of all the United Nations to protect them from pressure and aggression. The sooner we prove to these countries that this obligation will be discharged, the sooner they will be encouraged to assert their independence.

I conclude that the Russians are after everything they set forth in the written statement to Hitler, together with a number of additional "aspirations" they have developed as a result of their success in the war.

The Soviets did not tell Hitler their aspirations because of their love and affection for him. They told him only because they feared that if they tried to take territory without his consent, he would use force to stop them. Today there is no military strength in Europe to restrain the Russians. Only the power of the United Nations can do it. The United Nations must make known its determination to act to protect the threatened states. And the United States must make known its determination to use all of its power to support the action of the United Nations.

The immediate background of the "Truman Doctrine," announced by President Truman on March 12 before the Congress, was the postwar history of Europe which Mr. Byrnes saw from a vantage point shared by no other statesman. He describes the events leading up to the President's message, and explains his own position on it, in the next installment of "Speaking Frankly," which will be published tomorrow.

Ultimate Russian Goal Called All of Europe

"I think the Russians want in all European states a sufficient number of organized Communists so that they can dictate the policies of these states . . . Their . . . ultimate goal is to dominate in one way or another all of Europe."—from today's installment.

Chief of Staff Messenger Is Honored on Retirement

America's ranking Army chiefs gathered at the Pentagon yesterday to honor an old and beloved friend who is retiring.

He is James McIntosh, known as "Mac" to every Army Chief of Staff since Gen. Peyton March and thousands of War Department coworkers during those 30 years.

"Mac," chief messenger and general factotum in the Chief of Staff's office, received an official Army Certificate of Appreciation from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, signed by him and Army Secretary Royall. "Ike" voiced his own "affection, admiration and appreciation" for McIntosh.

Secretary of State George Marshall, who was "Mac's" boss during the war, left a Cabinet meeting to atteend the ceremony. When the time came for pictures, Marshall directed the Army photographer to take a second one of him, "Ike" and the old mesesnger "to make sure it turned out right."

Besides the certificate, McIntosh received a personal letter from General Eisenhower and a desk set, from his associates. It was not the first time he had been so honored. General MacArthur, cited him when the general left the War Department.

McIntosh, a native Washingtonian, lives at 244 3d st. sw.

Canada Discusses Role in Aid to Europe

ing Canada's Marshall Plan role are these:

1. Canada already is exporting virtually everything she can to western Europe within her existing productive capacity;

2. For anything additional under the Marshall Plan she probably will want to be paid in dollars, since she has not enough dollars for her own needs. At the present exchange rate of $4.03 to the pound, she finds it much cheaper to buy her coal and manufactured goods in the United States rather than in Great Britain.

3. Any dollars she might get for Marshall Plan purposes will promptly be spent in the United States and will add their weight, comparatively small though it may be, to the pressure on American prices.

These and other complications explain why financial as well as trade have come from Ottawa, and why it is hard to see any important Marshall Plan help coming from north of the border. The discussions are still in the "exploratory stage."

Much simpler, but more urgent, was the problem which Italian Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani brought to the State Department yesterday.

He reported such exhaustion of Italian dollar resources that his country could not wait until the special session of Congress provides stopgap help. Between now and Christmas Italy's needs for winter food and fuel are estimated at 120 million dollars.

'Scraping' Begins Again

As a result, the process of "scraping the barrel" for quickly available dollars has had to be begun all over again. The only source clearly in sight is 20 million dollars owed to Italy for the earnings of her prisoners of war in this country. Under the Geneva convention prisoners of war are paid in scrip, at prevailing wage rates, their earnings being remitted later in the equivalent amount of currency.

The State Department yesterday published the second, or statistical, volume of the report drawn up by the 16 European nations at Paris last summer. The 550-page report showed resources and needs, country by country and item by item.

It emphasized the unexpected ravoc of the late summer drought in Europe, the added effect of American price rises, and the almost complete dependence of western Europe upon the United States for its recovery in the next four years.

Sen. Brewster Believes Oil Costs Juggled

By The Associated Press

Seeking to show the U. S. Navy was overcharged for oil from Arabia, Senator Brewster (R., Me.) yesterday turned up what he said looked like a "serious misrepresentation" by American oil interests.

At a hearing before the Senate War Investigating Committee, which he heads, Brewster brought out evidence which he said indicated that:

Officers of the Arabian-American Oil Co. paid King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia 21 to 23 cents a barrel royalty on oil taken from his domain but represented the amount as 42 cents in raising prices charged the Navy.

Two officials of the oil company told Brewster he was wrong about a "serious misrepresentation."

James Terry Duce, vice president of Aramco, testified that the difference in royalty figures may result from an unsettled dispute with the Arabian King about what currency is to be used for the royalties.

W. S. S. Rodgers, chairman of the board of the Texas Co., which is one of the owners of Aramco, said numerous multi-million-dollar advances King Ibn Saud obtained from the oil company may account for the difference in figures.

Brewster and his committee staff have been trying to prove for several days that Aramco charged the Navy too much for oil in recent years. Brewster contends that the United States Government invested more than 80 million dollars in wartime lend-lease and other advances to Saudi Arabia that chiefly benefited the oil company which now is owned jointly by the Texas Co., Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and Socony-Vacuum.

Duce, Rogers and other executives insisted yesterday that the Navy got a "big break" on its oil prices and claimed to have risked an investment of more than 120 million dollars in the rich oil field in addition to 125 million dollars for a pipeline now under construction.

Brewster and oil officials agreed that Aramco showed a profit in 1946 of more than five million dollars on about 18 million dollars sales. They also agreed that a surplus of some 20 million dollars from Arabian operation was split at a "dividend melon" this year by the Texas and California Standard companies.

New Cabinet Seeks to End Strife in Peru

Lima, Peru, Oct. 31 (U.P.).—President Jose Luis Bustamante swore in a new and preponderantly military cabinet today in an effort to end Peru's 3-month-old political stalemate.

Eight of the 11 ministers sworn in at noon are military men, as against five civilians and five servicemen in the previous cabinet.

Since the so-called National Alliance grouping of rightists and moderates went on strike against the Socialist People's Party, which had been the majority group, neithe rhouse of Congress has been able to muster the necessary quorum to hold sessions. Consequently, no budget or funds have been voted.

Bustamante has suspended constitutional guarantees and postponed scheduled by-elections and municipal elections.

Headed by Rear Admiral Roque Saldias as premier and navy minister, the new cabinet includes Dr. Enrique Garcia Sayan as foreign minister.

La Guardia Field Flights Cancelled by Flood Tide

New York, Oct. 31 (U.P.).—A flood tide covered three fourths of La Guardia Airport today and forced cancellation of some flights and the transfer of others to Newark Airport.

The waters of Flushing Bay, which rose an estimated 10 feet at the peak of the flood, covered three of the four runways at La Guardia Field.

U. S. Proposes Palestine Plan

Big Five power could veto any part of the plan to which it objected.

Johnson took cognizance of the Russian recommendation by declaring that if a situation arose in Palestine which threatens international peace, the problem would pass to the Security Council.

Implicit in Johnson's statement was an assumption that Arab League threats to fight against partition to the "last drop of blood" was bluff. American delegates seemed unconcerned about the possibility of Arab troops massing on the border of Palestine.

Johnson made clear, however, that the Jewish Agency for Palestine and the Arab Higher Committee would be given the entire burden of forming the two new states.

U. N. Might Rule Arab Part

If the Arabs refused to cooperate, American delegates said, a United Nations trusteeship for the Arab portion of Palestine would be recommended. Partition of Palestine has been agreed upon by the Jewish agency.

One usually reliable source estimated that the Jewish state could marshal more than 60,000 trained soldiers, comprising two divisions and service troops. The arms they already have, none larger than mortars, would be supplemented by purchase after the state force has become legalized, American delegates declared.

As for attacks from outside the present borders of Palestine, they echoed Johnson's statement of October 10 that the Arab states are United Nations members and would be expected to abide by the Charter.

U. S. Exports Decline for Fourth Month

United States exports declined in September for the fourth consecutive month, the Census Bureau reported yesterday.

In contrast, shipments into the United States rose, thus, narrowing the trade gap which concerns the world because of the inability of foreign nations to pay for their United States purchases with proceeds of their foreign sales.

The Census Bureau estimated the value of September exports at $1,114,500,000, 3 per cent below August and the lowest since last January.

Imports, however, increased 21 per cent above August to a total of $481,100,000 for September. That was 4 per cent higher than the monthly average for the previous part of this year.

Exports thus exceeded imports by $633,400,000, the smallest difference since January of this year when the gap was $582,800,000.

Commercial exports, meaning all except foreign relief, Greek-Turkish aid, lend-lease and UNRRA shipments, dropped to the lowest point since February with a September value of $1,082,900,000, compared with $1,125,400,000 in August.

Exports under the other programs took this course:

Foreign relief program—increased from $12,300,000 in August to $25,800,000 in September.

Greek-Turkish aid — shipments remained at the August level of $4,200,000.

UNRRA — shipments declined from $2,800,000 in August to $800,000 in September.

Lend-lease — shipments rose from $100,000 in August to $800,000 in September.

Mrs. Truman Presented Portrait of President

Mrs. Harry S. Truman was presented yesterday with a new portrait of the President.

The portrait was presented in Mr. Truman's study by Secretary of the Treasury Snyder and George Killion, former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, in behalf of a group of "anonymous friends."

It was painted by Mrs. A. M. McNamara of Washington, who is known professionally as Greta Kempton.

Negro Ex-GIs Charge Bias in Baby Contest

Casper, Wyo., Oct. 31 (AP).—Charges of racial discrimination were made today against the Casper Moose Lodge by Negro veterans after a Negro mother was asked by the women of the lodge to withdrawn her 3-year-old child from a baby contest.

Mrs. Effie Gray said that her son, Ronald, first was accepted as a contestant, following an invitation, and she had sold many tickets which would have brought him votes toward the prizes.

Bert Johnson, governor of the Casper chapter of the Moose, said "the Moose lodge did not sponsor the baby contest," he declined to amplify this statement.

A spokesman for the women said the men's organization had brought pressure to bear on the women to have the Negro mother withdraw her child from the contest. She said the organization had a rule that no member of a non-Caucasian race might participate in any activity connected with the Moose Lodge.

The mother, who said she had received a card asking her to register the baby, said she was refunded all money collected and had returned it to her supporters in the contest.

Maine Police Find Bomb Near Hay-Loaded Barn

Portland, Me., Oct. 31 (INS).—Police discovered a crudely made "fire bomb" today at Durham, Me., near a weatherbeaten barn they termed a perfect setting for a disastrous fire.

The discovery was made as 35-mile winds swept rainless forest fire-ravaged Maine, whipping up a smouldering fire near Machias into ne wfury. The "fire bomb" consisted of a foot-long stick, wrapped in a heavy cloth. Some matches were found nearby. The barn was filled with 50 tons of hay.

Composer Strauss Needs Money for Landlord

London, Oct. 31 (AP).—Richard Strauss, 83, composer of Der Rosenkavalier and other musical classics, turned back to Switzerland and a waiting landlord today without money for his rent despite fees earned in three heavily attended concerts he conducted in London.

All Strauss' earnings and royalties piled up during the war were blocked because he still was an enemy alien pending drafting of an Austrian peace treaty. Ernest Roth, his companion, estimated these at $20,000. Strauss also has considerable royalty earnings blocked in the United States by the alien property custodian.

Illinois Senator Delays Candidacy Decision

Pinehurst, N. C., Oct. 31 (AP).—Senator Scott W. Lucas (D., Ill.) said tonight he expects to decide "within the next 10 days" whether to become a candidate for Governor of Illinois in 1948.

Lucas' present term in the Senate will expire in January, 1951.

The Chicago Times, in a dispatch from its Washington bureau, said Lucas had decided to remain in the Senate at the request of President Truman.

In commenting on the report Lucas said: "I don't know who the President made the request to. I haven't heard of it."

19 to 20 Billions Already Spent on Aid, Byrd Reports

ernment officials are assuming, that there is no bottom to our ability to spend dollars.

"This is more than dollars—it is our national resources and manpower. . . . These sums are so enormous it reflects very seriously in our cost of living."

Byrd himself offered no conclusions on how much the United States should spend for Marshall Plain aid. His report said its purpose "was to present in one place, and in the simplest possible form, a composite picture of postwar assistance furnished and authorized to date by the United States."

Partial Breakdown

He said his figures included:

1. Sixteen and a quarter billion dollars, which the Budget Bureau "could count as disbursed (for foreign assistance) between July 1, 1945, and July 1, 1947," and

2. Three billion dollars or more "in unrecorded relief and aid difficult to calculate."

The $16,250,000,000 estimate, his report said, represents a total of 951 million dollars in military assistance rendered, including 250 million dollars in the current year, and 15.3 billion dollars in civilian assistance, including $3,750,000,000 in the current year and 500 million dollars projected beyond July 1, 1948.

The three billion dollars "unrecorded assistance" figure, his report said, included stopgap funds and deficiencies for foreign assistance yet to be authorized, exclusive of the Marshall Plan.

Crawford Sees Choice

Meanwhile Representative Crawford (R., Mich.) told newsmen that this country, in aiding Europe, faces a choice between higher taxes or greater inflation.

Crawford said he believes "no appropriations should be made beyond those for which the American people are willing to pay through taxes." Further deficit financing—or appropriating money not actually on hand—will "only destroy the buying power of the people's accumulated savings and current wages," he said.

Senator O'Mahoney called for a new excess profits levy as one approach to the problem of how to curb high domestic prices while sending a great flow of dollars abroad.

O'Mahoney said business leaders should sit down with Congress and work out a formula which would give smaller industries an incentive to turn profits back into their business in order to stimulate competition and production.

Transit Pay Up 15 Cents

pany deeper into the red than it was in May, 1947, when the increase in fare was granted by the Public Utilities Commission after public hearings."

In May, the PUC permitted Capital Transit to raise the price of weekly passes from $1.25 to $1.50, and to eliminate the three-for-a-quarter tokens.

The wage award was made by a three-man arbitration panel including Dr. George W. Taylor, former chairman of the War Labor Board, impartial arbiter; O. David Zimring, head of the Midwest Labor Bureau, representing division 689, Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America (AFL); Edmund L. Jones, CTC general counsel and company arbiter. Jones dissented to the arbitration decision.

Highlights of the decision:

1. Wages—15 cents an hour increase for all hourly rated employes, retroactive to July 1. Highest pay, for operators, will now be $1.35 an hour. The retroactive provision will cost the company an estimated $500,000. The company announced it will take about eight weeks to compute and pay retroactive increases.

2. Vacations—One week after one year of employment; two weeks after three years; three weeks after 15 years. Old contract gave one week after one year, two weeks after five years. Award is retroactive.

3. Sick leave—After one year's service, seven days per year cumulative sick leave up to 35 days. There was no sick leave provision in last contract. Award is retroactive.

4. Night work differential—Mechanical department employes get 3 cents per hour extra for second shift; 5 cents per hour extra for third shift. They now get 2 and 4 cents extra. Award is retroactive.

5. Days off—Two consecutive days off were granted where practicable.

6. Other points—The employes' position was improved relative to Sunday and holiday runs, overtime allowances, pay guarantee for extra men, instructors' pay, report time allowance, wage and structure working conditions.

Union to Meet Tuesday

According to the company, 40 requests of the union were granted in whole or part, whereas of 40 requests by the company "designed largely to promote efficiency in operation almost all were denied."

W. F. Simms, union local president, said he had no comment to make on the arbitration award. He said the rank and file would probably express their opinion at a mass meeting at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday in Pythian Temple. The union had asked for an increase of hourly pay to $1.62 an hour.

Officials of Capital Transit met yesterday afternoon to go over details of the arbitration award, preparatory to presenting the facts to a board of directors meeting Monday. At that time, it is believed, policy will be formulated on seeking an increase in the rate structure.

Steelworkers Defy NLRB

such action was a misconstruction of the Taft-Hartley Act, violated the due process amendment of the Constitution, constituted a bill of attainder and flouted the requirements of the Administrative Procedures Act.

The latter law, Pressman said, required that notices such as that issued by the NLRB relating to the dismissal of the pending cases be printed in the Federal Register. This had not been done, Pressman pointed out.

22 Cases Pending

The union was concerned principally with 22 pending cases involving union representation. In some, the union had asked for collective bargaining elections. In the remainder it had appeared as intervenor when other unions had sought elections.

The union was less concerned with its other pending cases involving charges of unfair labor practices. Whether the union qualifies or not, an individual member remains at liberty to bring such cases before the NLRB at any time within six months after the alleged unfair practice was committed.

The auto workers union, which had also challenged the NLRB's right to throw out its pending cases, apparently decided at the last minute to take the easier course. President Walter Reuther telegraphed the NLRB, stating that a majority of his executive board had voted to comply. He requested that the rights of its pending cases be protected.

Baltimore Case Pends

Reuther's union has several old cases before the NLRB. One, of major importance, concerns a collective bargaining election in the big Glenn L. Martin aircraft plant near Baltimore.

The contrast between Reuther's action yesterday, on the one hand, and his union's earlier protest to the NLRB and the steelworkers' similar protest, on the other, highlights a left-right split in the CIO.

Unions with strong left-wing influence in their leadership—the electrical workers, for example—have urged non-compliance with the provision requiring the anti-Communist affidavits.

Reuther Victory

Pressman, who filed the protest for the Steelworkers, is generally considered to be a strong left-wing influence in the union.

Similarly, the attorney who filed the protest for the Auto Workers, Maurice Sugar, is reputed to be a partisan of the left-wing element in Reuther's union.

Reuther himself is in the opposite camp. The decision, therefore, to comply with the law appeared to be a notable victory for his point of view and a reversal of the earlier stand.

A few hours before last night's deadline, the NLRB indicated that the general determination in previous weeks of many unions to boycott the board appeared to have virtually ended. Affidavits were flooding in, and there were many requests from the unions for time extensions, accompanied by demonstrations of willingness to comply.

Nominations To Be Held Up

ments in each case and filled other vacancies as they occurred.

Except in the nomination of Herbert W. Christenberry, for Federal judge in the eastern Louisiana district, where the Senate waived the rule, all the nominations left hanging fire went off the calendar and must be resubmitted by the President in the regular way.

Ruling on Session

Normally these would be resubmitted, along with other vacancy appointments, when the Senate met again. Senate parliamentarians, however, are understood to have ruled that the November 17 meeting is simply a resumption of the first session of the Eightieth Congress, which technically never adjourned sine die.

The law requires the President to submit such nominations to the Senate "not later than 40 days after the commencement of the next succeeding session of the Senate." This has been construed to mean the session starting next January.

Fracas Almost Certain

The President's decision to wait until then will avert an otherwise certain special session fracas on such nominations as Abe Murdock of Utah and J. Copeland Gray of New York to the National Labor Relations Board; Robert H. Denham of Maryland, general counsel of the board; and James Boyd, director of the Bureau of Mines.

Other unconfirmed nominees, who subsequently received recess appointments, included Charles Oliphant of Maryland, assistant general counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau; Roy W. Harper of Missouri, Federal judge for the Eastern and Western Districts of Missouri, and John T. Jarechi of Illinois, internal revenue collector for the first district of Illinois.

Since Congress recessed July 27, the list of vacancies filled by the President and requiring confirmation by the Senate, has grown much longer.

List of Appointments

Here are the other recess appointments to important posts the Senate apparently won't be asked to act on until the next regular session:

Diplomatic appointments—Paul H. Alling of Connecticut, ambassador to Pakistan; Nathaniel P. Davis of New Jersey, ambassador to Costa Rica; Walter J. Donnelly of the District of Columbia, ambassador to Venezuela; J. Klahr Huddle, ambassador to Burma; James Hugh Keeley, jr., of California, minister to Syria; H. Freeman Matthews of Maryland, ambassador to Sweden, and Donald R. Heath of Kansas, envoy to Bulgaria.

Quakers Get Nobel Prize

lectureship, placement service, housing project division, counseling service, work camps, and peace caravans among Japanese Americans and Caucasians.

Quaker peace caravans composed of youth leaders carry throughout the United States the society's message of peace, and the necessity for racial cooperation and inter-cultural understanding.

The American Committee has administered some 60 million dollars for relief since World War I, in more than 20 nations without regard to creed, nationality or political belief.

The committee, headed by Henry J. Cadbury, represents about 100,000 members of the Society of Friends. Of the 579 persons on the committee, 32 per cent are Friends. Volunteers work in the field without salary, but their expenses are paid by the committee, whose executive secretary is Clarence Pickett.

The society is a member of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

The London Service Council of the British society is a group established in 1850 to promote missionary work and better international understanding in Europe, India and China. Before the war it established Quaker "embassies" in France, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, India and China. The offices in Germany and Austria, closed by the war, will be reopened soon. Branches were closed in Moscow in 1927 and Warsaw in 1934.

Selection of the two groups for the award came as some surprise, speculation as to possible recipients having centered on several distinguished individuals. Among these were Pope Pius XII, Mohandas K. Gandhi, Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, retired Russian diplomat, and Herbert H. Lehman, former Governor of New York, and former director general of UNRRA.

U. S. Demands Russia Release Woman Miner

The State Department was reported yesterday by Representative Kersten (R., Wis.) to have demanded that Russia release Eva Ochs, 31, formerly of Gresham, Wis., who, he said, has been forced to work in a coal mine for 30 months.

Her father, Henry Ochs, who has been living in Hungary since before World War II, recently wrote relatives in Milwaukee that Eva has been detained in a Russian coal mine.

Kersten told a reporter the State Department instructed American Ambassador W. B. Smith in Moscow to request the Soviet Foreign Office to ascertain the whereabouts of the girl and "to effect her release from detention."

Kersten said the girl's father was born in Hungary but had lived in this country for many years. Eva was born in Gresham.

A letter received by Peter Ochs, a cousin living in Milwaukee, from the father said a smuggled letter from the girl in Russia told of her being forced to work in the coal mine.

else on earth, and who has dedicated his life to the struggle for attainment of our national ideals."

Riposanu, author of the letter, defended Groza as his attorney during his imprisonment, and later became secretary of the Romanian National Assembly. He served as charge d'affaires and counsellor at the legation here until last August, when he resigned rather than become a member of the Communist Party.

He has a picture of Groza, presented to him in July of last year, with an inscription calling him "a valued friend of dark days." He recalled in his letter yesterday that he was mentioned in Groza's book, "In the Shadow of the Cell," as a "young and very dear friend of mine, who is continually at my side and whose invisible hand is always extended as a support."

Riposanu reminded Groza, the nominal head of a Soviet-dominated government, that during his imprisonment "practically everyone had abandoned you" except Maniu. Maniu not only worked unceasingly to get Groza out of prison, the letter recalled, but also cooperated in solving subsequent political crises in Romania.

The letter spoke of Maniu's "fearless struggle for the realization of the national and social ideals and freedom of the Romanian people," and of his "decisive role" in Romania's withdrawal from the Axis.

All these are reasons, Riposanu wrote, "why a cabinet presided over by you cannot prosecute Juliu Maniu, and why you personally cannot serve as an instrument to condemn him, even though today your political ideology differs from his."

Cut Predicted In Virginia's Tobacco Quota

Richmond, Va., Oct. 31 (AP).—L. M. Walker, jr., State commissioner of agriculture, today had a gloomy picture of prospects for the 1948 tobacco season.

With quota reductions of 20 to 30 per cent probable, the outlook for next year is for a substantial reduction in the income of tobacco farmers of southside Virginia, Walker said.

To offset the expected loss, Walker pointed out that the extension service at Virginia Tech now is urging greater seeding of grain and increased production of food for home consumption next year.

Recommendations for tobacco quotas for 1948 will be discussed at a meeting of representatives of the Production and Marketing Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Raleigh Wednesday, he said.

Cat's Paws Hurt After 1000-Mile Trek to Old Home

Atlanta, Oct. 31 (AP).—Mr. Black was content to stay home tonight and let his brothers do all the necessary catting around for Halloween.

Mr. Black's feet hurt after his 1000-mile trip from the home of Mrs. Ted Jones in Stamford, Conn., to the residence of his original owner, Mrs. L. T. Fraser.

Mrs. Fraser said she gave the black and white tom cat to her sister last spring. About a month ago, she said, Mrs. Jones wrote the animal had disappeared.

How Mr. Black made the journey nobody knows, but he obviously enjoyed having his feet soaked in warm water.

Civil Rights Bills Being Drawn Up

Rep. Celler to Introduce Measures Implementing Report for D. C. Suffrage

At least a dozen bills implementing recommendations of the President's Committee on Civil Rights, including one extending local self-government and national suffrage to the District, will be ready for the hopper when Congress reconvenes.

Representative Emanuel Celler (D., N. Y.) announced plans to introduce District suffrage and other implementing legislation in a statement describing the civil rights report as "vitalizing and dramatic."

Celler said the recommendations of the President's committee must not be dissipated "by legislative inaction."

Joint Committee Planned

Across the Capitol, meanwhile, Senator Francis J. Myers (D., Pa.) commended the report as "an outstanding public service" and said he will join in sponsoring a resolution to create a Joint Senate-House Committee on Civil Rights.

Myers praised the call for fair employment practices legislation, an anti-lynch law, and elimination of the poll tax as a voting prerequisite.

Celler said his District suffrage bill will provide for local self-government in the District and extension of suffrage in presidential elections and representation in Congress to District residents, as recommended by President's Committee on Civil Rights.

Like Myers, he said he will offer a bill for a joint standing committee on civil rights.

Celler said he will introduce other recommended measures when the special session assembles, providing as follows for:

1. Establishment within FBI of a special unit of investigators trained in civil rights work.
2. Establishment of a permanent Commission on Civil Rights in the Executive Office of the President.
3. Amendments to Section 51 of Title 18 of the United States Code which will strengthen Federal rights against encroachment by both private individuals and public officers.
4. Enactment of statutes to protect the rights of qualified persons to participate in Federal primaries and elections against interference by public officers and private persons.
5. Extension of naturalization laws to permit granting of citizenship without regard to race, color or national origin of applicants.
6. Extension of citizenship to the people of Guam and American Samoa.
7. Legislation to end discrimination and segregation based on race, color, creed or national origin, in the organization and activities of all branches of the armed services.
8. Systematic registration procedures for all groups which attempt to influence public opinion.
9. Withholding Federal assistance to public or private agencies which are not scrupulously observant of civil rights.
10. Enactment of statutes to strengthen Federal prosecutions of instances of involuntary servitude.

Dr. Carl H. Kopf Had Hoped to Become Lawyer

The Rev. Carl Heath Kopf, who will assume tomorrow the historic First Congregational pulpit at 10th and G sts. nw., originally intended to become a lawyer.

Kopf

He was graduated from Princeton University, majoring in political science. But after a year of counseling students as secretary of the Princeton YMCA, he turned from law to religion. In 1925 and 1926, he taught the history of Christianity at Princeton and took graduate work at Princeton Theological Seminary. Later he earned his theological degree from Boston University School of Theology.

Mr. Kopf has served three pulpits—the Eliot Church, Roxbury, Mass., as assistant minister from 1926 to 1928; the Crombie Congregational Church, Salem, Mass., from 1928 to 1933, and Mount Vernon Church, Boston, from 1933 until the present. His weekly radio program, "From a Window on Beacon Street," is popular among all faiths.

As vice president of the American Board of Commissioners of Foreign Missions, Mr. Kopf was sent to the Philippines last year to visit the devastated churches and missions and make a report on their condition and need. He will speak to the Men's Club of the church Monday evening concerning this "Pacific Mission."

Chinese Reds Report Moore Died in Crash

Shanghai, Oct. 31 (AP).—A radio message from the Chinese Communists tonight said that Harley Moore of Syracuse, N. Y., and two Chinese crewmen were killed in the crash of their China Air Transport Corp. plane October 17 near Shihkiachwang, central China.

Moore

The message, sent from Communist Huitsaiyu, near Shihkiachwang by CARA (Communist Area Relief Agency) was received through UNRRA facilities. It said the plane crashed and burst into flames and that the bodies had been buried by Communist militia.

The fliers vanished on a routine cargo-carrying trip from Shihkiachwang to Peiping. The radio message did not say what caused the crash. Search planes were fired upon from the ground.

Moore's mother, Mrs. Hazel Moore, of the Washington Club, 1701 K st. nw., Washington D. C., flew to China after Moore was reported missing. She is in Peiping with Mrs. Moore.

Ronald Gibson, 13-year-old St. Alban's student, and a member of the Washington Cathedral choir for the past four years, will be the boy soprano and portray the role of the youth in this famous oratorio.

Louis A. Potter again will conduct the choral group which has been in rehearsal for the past two months.

This oratorio, Dr. Potter says, enjoys a popularity second only to Handel's "Messiah", which the Society will present in December at Constitution Hall. It was finished in May, 1846, a year and a half before Mendelssohn passed away. Many members of the choral group sing at various churches.

Among the soloists are Anne McKnight, well known New York soprano, who made her professional debut under the auspices of Arturo Toscanini on the 50th anniversary performance of Puccini's "LaBoheme" in February, 1946; Ruth Brall, Philadelphia contralto; Norman Carey, New York lyric tenor and Robert Nicholson, Washington barytone.

Nicholson sang the "Elijah" with the choral group two years ago.

Tubby' Clayton, Toc H Founde r, Visits Captial

THE REV. MR. CLAYTON
He is campaigning to restore bomb-wracked London landmark

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

The Rev. T. B. "Tubby" Clayton, due to arrive here today, is known to Britishers and others throughout the world as the founder of Toc H.

According to Coleman Jennings, prominent Washingtonian who headed the local Toc H from 1927 to 1935, that organization "is dedicated to teaching the younger generation class reconciliation and unselfish service."

Jennings, a layman of St. John's Episcopal Church, recalled last night that "Tubby" Clayton started Toc H in Talbot House, London, in World War I.

"'Tubby' Clayton was then serving as Army padre in the Ypres salient," Jennings recollected, "and he started Talbot House, a club for soldiers of all ranks. It was named in honor of Lieut. Gilbert Talbot, a young British officer killed in action in July, 1915.

"The Talbot Club," said Jennings, "developed a marvelously happy spirit of comradeship and service, obtained its inspiration from a chapel, or upper room in what had been the loft of the house, and from the inspiration of the padre, who used the house as a means of reconciling man with man and man with God."

"Toc H" stands for the initials of Talbot House, with the "T" pronounced "Toc" as in the alphabet of the Army Signal Corps in World War I. The Washington branch of Toc H. closed in '35.

Mr. Clayton is chaplain to King George and vicar of All-Hallows-by-the-Tower, London. SCOTSMAN'S CHOIR RECORD

While we are on the subject of the British Isles:

Your church reporter's father, Andrew T. Allan of Coatesville, Pa., and a native Scot, last week celebrated 64 years' church choir service. He started singing at 13 in the Established Church of Scotland (Presbyterian) in the village of Biggar, 30 miles from Edinburgh, his birthplace. Since 1900 he has been a member of Trinity Episcopal Church, Coatesville, Pa.

MISSIONARY HONORED BY GREAT BRITAIN

Lord Inverchapel, British Ambassador to the United States, yesterday presented the Kaiser-i-Hind medal to Miss Edith Eykamp, United Lutheran Church's missionary to India.

The medal, awarded for conspicuous service to the welfare of India, was conferred during ceremonies in the Department of Agriculture Auditorium. Miss Eykamp had been head of two schools in Guntur, Madras—a high school and a teachers' training school. A graduate of Carthage College in Illinois, Miss Eykamp went to India in 1926. The announcement of the honor conferred upon Miss Eykamp by King George VI, then Emperor of India, was made last Christmas but the actual ceremony was delayed because she was in the United States.

'Red Feather Sunday' To Be Marked Tomorrow

Religious rites in most of the 600 places of worship in the National Capital Area tomorrow will mark Red Feather Sunday, and the unity of all faiths and all races in the Community Chest Federation's campaign organization.

Special sermons, sacred services and announcements from pulpits will emphasize religion's role in the support of health, welfare and recreation services provided by agencies in six Community Chests in Washington, Alexandria and the counties of Arlington, Fairfax, Montgomery and Prince Georges.

Through the efforts of the Committee on Religious Life in the Nation's Capital, Red Feather Sunday services will bring thousands of worshipers special messages from clerical leaders of Jewish, Catholic and Protestant faiths. Another special message for use in regular services has been prepared by the Committee on Religious Life. The Rev. Dr. C. Leslie Glenn is the committee chairman.

Committee's Message

The committee's message states: "There are only two classes of people in the National Capital area at this time of year. Those who need help, and those who can give help. Fortunately most of us are in the second group. Everyone of that class can do something."

Support of the Community Chest was urged in statements from the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, administrator of Washington and Baltimore Archdioceses; Bishop Angus Dun of the Washington Episcopal Diocese; Rabbi Solomon H. Metz, spiritual leader of Adas Israel Congregation, and Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, federation of churches' executive secretary.

Dr. Merker to Speak

Guest preacher tomorrow at 11 a. m. at Metropolian Presbyterian Church, 4th and B sts. se., will be Dr. Ralph M. Merker, superintendent of missions for the Washington City Presbytery.

Blessed Martin Porres, Famed Miracle Worker, Lima, Peru, To Be Honored by Holy Hour.
Blessed Martin De Porres, whose father was a Spanish nobleman, and his mother a freed slave of Panama, will be honored in many Catholic Churches throughout the world on November 3rd, the day on which he died in 1639. Many startling healings and wonders are attributed to this holy brother. He is given credit for restoring life to a dead youth of Peru. His most recent benefactoress was a Catholic sister stationed in South Africa who claims Martin cured her of a severe bleeding stomach ulcer.
A Holy Hour will be observed in the Blessed's honor at St. Augustine's Church on 15th Street between R and S Sts. N. W. on the evening of November 3rd, from 8 to 9 o'clock. Non-Catholics are cordially invited to this service. All Interracial Organizations are most welcome and are urged to attend, for the general intention of this hour of prayer is justice for all men.

Confusion Of Rights

It is difficult to follow the logic of Prof. Colston E. Warne in refusing to sign the loyalty questionnaire now required of all Government employes and then writing a voluminous letter to Dr. E. G. Nourse, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, containing most if not all of the information that would ordinarily have gone into the questionnaire. Mr. Warne says that he is not a Communist and never has been. Nor does he have any affiliations with Communist or Fascist Parties that he wishes to hide. In his statement he has given an extensive account of his experience and associations. It looks as if he is quite willing to submit his record to public scrutiny, but not to governmental scrutiny.

The Washington Post has severely criticized the procedures by which the loyalty test is being applied. But we have also repeatedly upheld the right of the Government to protect itself from Trojan Horse tactics by a proper and judicious screening of its own employes. Professor Warne takes refuge in Prof. Henry S. Commager's contention that the whole loyalty test is an invasion of constitutional rights. In doing so he falls into Professor Commager's fallacy of reading the first amendment as a statement of privileges for Government employes.

Of course, it is nothing of the sort. As we have previously pointed out, "the right to freedom of opinion and of speech inheres in the individual's status as a citizen and not in his status as an employe." The very fact that Professor Warne issued a lengthy statement denouncing the loyalty test ought to be proof enough that his freedom of speech has not been impaired. It is this right that the Constitution guarantees to him—not the right of remaining a Government employe if he refuses to comply with the conditions lawfully prescribed for that employment.

Jim Crow

There can be no pleasure for Washingtonians in the indictment of our city contained in the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights. But there is no use in denying the validity of the indictment or in flinching from the facts which it reveals.

Discrimination is an inevitable consequence of compulsory and systematic segregation. The President's committee has gone, therefore, to the heart of the problem in recommending a complete abandonment of segregation in all phases of the community's public life. Nothing less could serve to assure Negroes the equality of rights and opportunities which is their due as citizens of the United States. "Segregation," the committee observes, "has become the cornerstone of the elaborate structure of discrimination against some American citizens. Theoretically this system simply duplicates educational, recreational and other public services, according facilities to the two races which are 'separate but equal.' In the committee's opinion this is one of the outstanding myths of American history, for it is almost always true that, while indeed separate, these facilities are far from equal." This is manifestly true in Washington of health, housing, educational and recreational facilities.

No doubt the committee's recommendations will be attacked as impractical because they run counter to vested interests and a prevailing pattern complacently accepted. But the inescapable fact is that nothing less than a complete abandonment of segregation could be considered practical if it is genuinely our purpose to assure Negroes their birthright as Americans. Anything less would be, in the truest sense of the term, wholly unrealistic.

To argue, as some do, that education and evolution should be left alone to work some miraculous dissolution of prejudice is to deny all the lessons of experience. This is simply an ostrich formula of neglect. And reliance upon it during the past quarter century has produced nothing save a marked deterioration in the position of Negroes in this city. To argue, as do others, that Negroes are not yet ready for equality is patently to beg the question. The inequality of their opportunities is precisely what has rendered them unready. In this context, it is necessary, perhaps, to point out what should be obvious, that nowhere in the report of the President's committee is it proposed that any element of the community should be required to mingle socially with any other element uncongenial to it.

There is no objection to segregation so long as it is voluntary. The objection is to enforced segregation which has the effect of excluding any element of the community from full participation in its public life. This is a cancerous condition, as injurious to those who impose it as to those who suffer under it.

Next Move In France

The vote of confidence in the indomitable Paul Ramadier has by no means extricated him from his dilemma: he still heads a minority government of Socialists and MRP. The vote abates by not one iota the feebleness in which it was left by the result of the municipal elections. Outside and not inside the Assembly lies the country's power, and the Assembly is so unrepresentative that, in our opinion, if General de Gaulle had made the effort, the vote doubtless would have gone against Premier Ramadier. In that event the political confusion would have been bewildering. Under the existing constitution a dissolution of the Assembly is impossible either by the President or by the Assembly itself. In the circumstances, chaos would have been the name for France. It is not unlikely that the demonstrated impotence of the Assembly would have persuaded the Communists and the anti-Communists to try to come to conclusions in civil turmoil. That De Gaulle stayed his hand and allowed the Ramadier government to retain a flicker of life is evidence that he is still addicted to constitutional methods.

However, the suspicion still clings to the enigmatic De Gaulle that he is harboring dictatorial designs. This he must realize. He could help to change this feeling on the part of the Centrists, particularly the Radical Socialists under Herriot, by developing an economic program during the remaining life of the Ramadier government, perhaps, also, by making a party out of his movement. At present his policy is simple: anti-communism and a presidential state. For the rest he has seemed to echo Louis Napoleon: "My name is my program." This is not enough for the intelligence of France, though in these tense days, with the Communists engaged openly and on Soviet instructions in sabotage, it satisfies the emotions. The plain fact is that France is rapidly going on the rocks of economic ruin. Shortages of all kinds, the worst harvest for 150 years, a vicious spiral of wages and prices, lack of dollars to buy basic goods and reconstruction, a growing budgetary gap, the black market in which more and more Frenchmen are being enlisted, a virtual strike of taxpayers—these problems face Premier Ramadier, but they likewise face De Gaulle as the custodian of 40 per cent of the suffrage of France. What would he do about them? If he came out with a clear-cut program, doubtless the middle-of-the-roaders who at present hesitate to support De Gaulle would not balk at De Gaulle's proposed change in the constitution providing for a strong executive on the American model. Perhaps De Gaulle stayed his hand in the debate on the vote of confidence because, after demonstrating the inadequacy of the present constitution, he needed time to build up such an economic program.

In the vote-of-confidence debate the Socialist leaders, amid the din in the streets, exchanged mud with the Communists, and made faces at the silent De Gaulle. But De Gaulle is a fact, and there is danger inside France that the same mistake will be repeated that America made in North Africa, that is to say, of denying him as a fact. Wisdom consists in attention to realities. If De Gaulle elaborates an economic program, there can be no excuse for the continued denial of his legally won place in France by the Socialists. By indulging in the same tactic we made the wartime De Gaulle more and more intransigent, and the Socialists and the splinter parties seem intent on making him more and more Rightist. In the present extremity of France such an attitude is bound to breed dictatorship. For the danger of dictatorship does not lie in De Gaulle as such, it lies in the creation of a vacuum which is abhorrent to all kinds of nature, not least the human variety. In the meantime Ramadier can keep the ship of state afloat only by constant appeasement of the Communist-directed strikes which are intent on wrecking France in the interests of the Soviet Union.

Session Plans

Senator Taft's proposal to deal with the long-range Marshall Plan at the "special" session of Congress in conjunction with the interim aid program makes good sense. For the same questions regarding restrictions and methods of administration will arise in connection with both programs. Decisions about the amount of interim aid to be extended will also be influenced to some extent by the action taken in respect to the long-range relief plan. In short, the two programs are parts of a comprehensive whole. Congress would not only be wasting time by going over controversial ground a second time; it would be handicapped in its work on the immediate aid program by a failure to take into account all the facts concerning European needs and our capacity to render aid.

This kind of comprehensive approach is quite compatible with speedy disposal of the emergency relief program, even though final action on the Marshall Plan may not be possible at a special session. As a matter of fact, the temporary program will be launched under much more favorable auspices if Congress previously makes unmistakably clear its intention to support a long-range rehabilitation program.

In a recent interview, Senator Taft threw a good deal of cold water on the suggestion that the Republicans and Democrats might be able to cooperate in a bipartisan program for dealing with high domestic prices and foreign aid. However, his subsequent remarks, as well as the views of other Republican spokesmen, encourage the belief that a middle-of-the-road control program acceptable to both Republicans and Democrats can be worked out. For Mr. Taft's opposition to price controls and individual rationing does not preclude consideration of proposals to allocate scarce commodities. He also favors the creation of a new agency to administer allocations and to supervise commodity purchases and exports. Moreover, he "wouldn't object" to extension of consumer credit regulations. This is a very comprehensive program that would help to curb domestic inflation, safeguard the domestic economy against the impact of the foreign relief program, and probably go about as far as administration supporters of the Marshall Plan consider politically advisable. There may—and doubtless will be—differences of opinion as to the amount of relief to be given Europe and the length of time for which appropriations should be voted under the Marshall Plan. But these are essentially nonpartisan issues admitting of compromise solutions. From present indications, therefore, the Administration can count on very effective support from the Republicans in its plans for control of inflation at home and aid to Europe.

The greatest single threat to expeditious action on these issues stems from the expressed intention of Senator Taft to consider tax reduction legislation at the special session. If bills for that purpose should be reported out of committee before the special session has disposed of the principal business before it, action on the foreign-aid program might be seriously delayed. In any case, a tax-reduction bill entailing substantial losses of revenue would reduce the amount of foreign aid that could be safely given and would doubtless be vetoed by the President. The result would be to jeopardize the maintenance of smooth-working relations between the Administration and Congress at a time when it is supremely important for the executive and legislative branches of the Government to cooperate in working out programs of domestic price relief and foreign aid.

Offshore Oil

In a long letter to the President, Attorney General Clark has undertaken to explain in detail the stipulations into which he entered last July concerning the submerged lands off the coast of California, because, he says, "their provisions and effect have been misunderstood." We are now persuaded that in characterizing these stipulations, as we did editorially on Wednesday as "profligate," we were among those who misunderstood them. "The fact is," the Attorney General advises the President, "that the stipulation on operations was necessary to conserve the oil supplies and prevent enormous wastage and loss; and the stipulation on the Government's claim was limited in scope, so as to make sure that no portion of the Federal property was involved."

There can be no doubt that some interim arrangement governing operation of the oil wells in the coastal waters off California had to be made pending precise judicial determination of the extent of the award to the Federal Government and pending the determination by Congress of a policy for management of the Federal property. It does not seem to us that the arrangement respecting revenue from the wells entered into by the Attorney General was as advantageous from the Federal point of view as it might have been. The temporary nature of the arrangement should be recognized, however; it is to remain in effect only until Congress acts or, in any case, no later than September 30, 1948. It appears, therefore, to have been a permissible exercise of administrative discretion, justified by the imperative need for uninterrupted oil production.

The stipulation disavowing any claim to three specified bays along the California coast is defended by the Attorney General on the ground that they "were not within the belt in which the United States had paramount rights." From the inception of the marginal sea suit and throughout the conduct of the case before the Supreme Court, the Government was at great pains to make clear that it asserted no claim to California's inland waters or even to the tidelands. Indeed, it may be said to have won its claim to the marginal sea only by distinguishing this belt from the inland waters and the area lying landward of the low-water mark. Thus it seems indisputable that the three specified bays (and many others as well, no doubt) belong to California. Equally, a stipulation that they would not be claimed in the future, as they were not claimed in the course of the suit, was warranted; and we should not have charged the Solicitor General with high-handedness in asserting that it remained in full force as a declaration of the Government's intention.

The statement that the bays were not being claimed, Mr. Clark explains to the President, "was deemed desirable as evidence of the Government's sincerity in its repeated assertions that it was not making any claims to bays and harbors." We hope heartily that Congress accepts it as such and refrains from attempting to give away, as it did in its last session, the marginal sea which has now been declared to be the property of the United States. The presumably rich mineral resources of this area, some 3 thousand square miles in extent and as yet almost entirely undeveloped, should be conserved insofar as conservation is possible for the future security of the Nation.

"Prosecutor Vishinsky"

Your editorial comment of October 27 on "Prosecutor Vishinsky" brings to mind a similar technique hundreds of years ago by the Crown Prosecutor at the trial of Sir Walter Raleigh.

The following is a part of a dialogue between Raleigh and the Prosecutor, Coke (a la Vishinsky), as quoted in a law text, Aron's Notes on Proof:

Coke: I will prove you the notoriest traitor that ever came to the bar.

Raleigh: Your words cannot condemn me. My innocency is my defense.

Coke: Nay, I will prove all; thou art a monster.

Raleigh: Let me answer for myself.

Coke: Thou shalt not.

Raleigh: It concerneth my life.

Coke: Oh, do I touch you?

Raleigh: I will wash my hands of the indictment and die a true man.

Coke: You are the absolutest traitor that ever was.

Raleigh: Your words will not prove it. You do me wrong.

Coke: You are the most vile and execrable traitor that ever lived.

Raleigh: You speak indiscreetly, barbarously, and incivilly.

Coke: I want words sufficient to express the viperous treasons.

Raleigh: I think you want words indeed, for you have spoken one thing half a dozen times.

Coke: Thou art an odious fellow, thy name is hateful to all the realm of England for thy pride.

Raleigh: It will go near to prove a measuring cast between you and me.

Coke: Well, I will make it appear to the world that there never lived a viler viper upon the face of the earth than thou. J. R. W.

Hollywood Hearings

For several successive days Mary Spargo has had a front-page story on the hearings before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. In each she has used the expression "Red fascism." I hope you will permit me to say that anyone who uses an expression such as this or who states or implies that communism and fascism are identical or similar reveals an ignorance of the real nature of both so great as to disqualify her from writing any further stories on either of these phenomena.

Your editorials have stressed that these Hollywood folk are being victimized, yet, when they appear on the stand they make no effort to defend themselves. If they have nothing to hide, why their incessant babble about irrelevant subjects?

MRS. E. B. OSBORNE.

Alexandria.

Some astounding revelations have come out of the hearings of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities. It is not only that we have learned, through tacit admissions of some of the screen writers who have been questioned, that some American writers have taken membership in an organization controlled by a foreign power whose purpose it is to overthrow the American form of government, but that American lawyers, American aspirants to high public office in our Government, editors of American newspapers and American columnists and radio commentators have made public expressions of the belief that the hearings violate the constitutional rights of persons who have been found by Government investigators to be aiding and abetting treasonable activities.

It is shocking to find that so many of our editors, columnists and commentators see no difference between membership in a religious denomination (or a recognized legitimate political party) and membership in the Communist organization which has for its purpose the treasonable destruction of our form of government as specified in the Constitution. They say as much as that George Washington had no legal right to make an investigation of the activities of Benedict Arnold, to summon witnesses and to require witnesses, under oath, to reply to questions.

It is shocking, also, to find that counsel for hostile witnesses attempt to ridicule the committee and to heckle its members, as well as to deceive the public into a belief that the entire matter is illegal. BENJAMIN KING.

Postoffice Red Tape

The Postoffice Department seems determined to discourage individuals from sending food and clothing to France. My wife and I have sent scores of parcels to France during the past two years. We do not begrudge the cost, the time and the effort, but we do resent the difficulties put in our way by the postoffice.

Finding and buying suitable food properly wrapped, and boxes that can be packed tight while weighing under 11 pounds, is quite a task. This is followed by careful wrapping, addressing and tying Next we have to write various information on four labels provided by the postoffice, and attach them to each package.

We now journey hopefully to the postoffice and find the rate is 14 cents per pound, with the pound as the minimum weight. So each parcel, weighing over 10 pounds, costs us $1.54. Occasionally the postoffice scales do not agree with ours and we have to take the parcel home and repack it if it is half an ounce overweight.

I took two parcels to the postoffice and was told that a new regulation required all worn clothing to be listed separately on the customs declaration label, so I had to carry the parcels home again. Perhaps the postoffice is not responsible for these changing condition and all this red tape. If the French government is responsible I should like to see an explanation from the French Embassy. There are many people in this country who want to help the Europeans, but some give way to discouragement when too many difficulties are placed in their way.

Church And State

In discussions of the question of "church and state" practically everyone points an accusing finger at the Catholic Church. Why does our Protestant majority never take cognizance of the number of state churches that are not Roman Catholic? I find the following state churches in the Christian world:

Denmark, Lutheran; Sweden, Lutheran ("some civil disabilities attach to those not of the national religion"); Norway, Lutheran ("supported by state funds" "clergy appointed by King"); Scotland, Presbyterian; England, Protestant Episcopal (King supreme governor); Finland, Lutheran; Greece, Greek Orthodox; Iceland, Lutheran ("supported by state funds"); Romania, Orthodox; Bulgaria, Orthodox. The source of these facts is the Statesman's Yearbook, London.

In comparison I find only 10 Roman Catholic state churches.

War Dead And DPs

Herblock's cartoon of October 28 headed: "They Didn't Ask Me Who Should Get The Trip, Kid," is perfect.

We can all understand the sentiments of the relatives of our war dead, who desire that the mortal remains of those that died in action be removed to the United States for burial. The noble dead are, of course, beyond consultation—their lips are stilled in death. If they could speak to us they would say in unison: "Disturb our eternal peace no further; if you would render service, render it unto the living. Our battle has been fought and won; yours must continue until you die."

I think it would be a noble gesture indeed if, by a special act of Congress, we would admit to this country one displaced person for each of our boys that died fighting abroad. It would be a fitting and proper way to honor our dead. It would be an eternal monument to their memory.

WALTER FELDER.

Washington.

As a veteran of 31 months overseas, I certainly disagree with your cartoon of October 28 drawn by Herblock. Regardless of the DP situation and the fact that the "dead" cannot talk, I think that each soldier, sailor and marine is entitled to a round trip, and if it is his family's wishes that the remains be returned to this country for interment, then that wish should be granted.

I think that a man who dies for his country and perhaps for some of the DPs is entitled to respect, and your cartoon certainly doesn't give either him or his next of kin the respect that is properly due him. WILLIAM P. REDFIELD.

"Shock To Complacency"

On October 20 you printed a splendid editorial, "Shock to Complacency." It was, or should be a shock to those who did not realize what the greed of some business men had done and is doing to the health of the low-salaried workers in this country.

You dealt with the report of the Welfare Commissioner of New York City, where he disclosed the actual damage to standards of health because of the high cost of living. You ended the editorial with these words: "While we are helping other nations to become self-supporting, we must see to it that our own people are not left to the mercies of charity, because of a failure to protect hem against the pressures of rising living costs."

However, we cannot expect that the very persons who raised the prices so high that our own health is endangered, who raised the prices so high that our aid to Europe will cost us twice what it should, will cease to raise prices or will lower them willingly. A gesture may be made before Congress acts to forestall congressional action against these gentlemen, but the test of governmental and congressional sincerity will reside in just what definite action is taken, and how few shibboleths are uttered on free enterprise.

Already, so I have heard over the radio, one Congressman, probably fearing a more just law on tax reduction, or oblivious to the Nation's need, has threatened to introduce his pet tax bill before Congress can act on the items for which this special session was called.

I do not know what can be done about men like that—once they are in Congress. At the same time I do hope that the vast majority of our representatives will resist whatever impulses they have to push forward their pet bills and get down to the business at hand.

Cinderella's Choice

By Malvina Lindsay

Debt or Drab Living

NOW THAT buying on the cuff has been made easier by the ending of credit controls, many are wondering whether people will go on a spending spree. But the question rather is: How will this influence the average family in deciding what it will do about its living standards?

For inflation has brought to most wage earners the choice of going back to the ashes of austerity or going into debt. Relaxed credit now offers more temptation to take the easier way. For one of the hardest tests human nature faces is to lower living standards, to do without the "things" to which it has become accustomed. Yet on the public's choice in this may depend how fierce inflation fires will finally rage.

Merchants, of course, say they will be cautious, that additional credit will be conservatively granted. They are already alarmed by the lag in collections in credit accounts. Yet some authorities on human nature are predicting that if Congress doesn't restore credit curbs, the sky will be the limit within a few weeks. Others predict that by the first of the year durable goods will be offered on 2 and 3-year terms with no down payments.

COMPETITION for the customer's dollar among grocers, landlords, clothing retailers and dealers in durable goods is likely to break the credit line. Surveys of retail merchants in large cities reveal their strong desire to hold down credit, but also their general recognition that if one large competitor eases credit too much, the lid will be off.

What is more, the consumer next year will be subjected to what may be a record barrage of advertising. Business is reported to be planning to spend through advertising agencies an extra large budget to induce its customers to keep on buying.

But final decision on spending will lie with the consumer. Pressures now beat on him from two sides. On one he is being warned that if he gives inflation another shot in the arm he is likely to be caught as many of his kind were in 1929, jobless and owing a lot of money that has suddenly increased in value. He is reminded that a boom in installment buying and credit preceded the 1929 crash. And virtually all the advice he receives from economists, bankers, financial strategists as to building a bomb shelter against depression boils down to: Keep out of debt.

On the other side he is bombarded by the needs of his family—needs that his income won't stretch to meet. Food takes from 35 to 50 per cent of his dollar. Other expenses eat more and more deeply into his wages. Yet he has been getting a paycheck he was rather proud of by prewar standards, and his family has been taking for granted the better food, clothing, other comforts it has been receiving. Now he needs a car, his wife wants a washing machine or refrigerator. Where is the money coming from? . . . Ah, but he doesn't need money, says the salesman. At least no money to speak of. Just sign on the dotted line.

OR IT MAY be a veteran who must furnish a home or apartment, perhaps buy a car in which to commute. Or a working girl who needs to dress well to hold her job or get a husband, and who has developed a taste above bargain basement merchandise. Or a housewife who has waited four or five years for prices to break so she can get a new winter coat, and who can't wait any longer.

Some of those up against these problems in recent months have kept on stretching their budgets beyond their wages by cashing their E bonds or increasing their installment buying. Installment sales for clothing have greatly increased. It is estimated that 27 per cent of families went into the red last year in maintaining their standards of living. Some predict that at present buying rates, 50 per cent will this year. That is why consumer credit is now at 12 billion dollars, up 50 per cent from last year, and at its highest point in history.

As buying continued apace, these consumers helped supply the answer to the constantly asked question: "Where is all the money coming from?" Now as further relaxed credit enables them to keep on buying as usual they are likely to forget the warning of depression prophets.

Yet these consumers cannot be regarded as wildcat spenders or even compared with those who frantically kept up with the Joneses in the 1920's. Rather they are Cinderellas, who having been at the ball, balk at going back to their sculleries.

War Talk

Despite the fact that by far the worst wars in history (waged in this century in an effort to "end all wars") resulted in almost universal chaos and all but "ended" our vaunted civilization, we are told again by some that a third world war conflict is inevitable, in order to establish global freedom.

The founder of Christianity rebuked Peter for recourse to the sword while reminding him that his mission was to save lives not destroy them. During brief periods of peace, the church has made some attempt to promote brotherhood while the commandment "Thou Shalt Not Kill" is droned from pulpits. But one can hardly recall a single major war in almost 20 centuries that has not had the full support of organized religion.

A philosopher [illegible]ked, "Who wins a war?" He replied, "Who wins an earthquake?"

Crabbe's "Death"

Communist Propaganda In Europe

Editor's Note: The two following translated excerpts from handouts of the Communist Parties in Yugoslavia and Italy are presented here to illustrate the fantastic falsehoods about America which are being disseminated daily by the Communist propaganda machines. Both excerpts are from handbills that were distributed to crowds at movie theaters. They later were reprinted in the Communist press.

This article originated in Yugoslavia and was published in the People's Letter at Zagreb on July 13.

"IN THE middle of June, in Hollywood, Gary Cooper, Tyrone Power and Alan Ladd, well-known film stars were imprisoned because they were marked as "Leftists" and denounced un-Americans, but before that happened, something else was going on, about which the American newspaper agencies did not speak, and that is very characteristic of conditions today in the United States.

"The film actor, Buster Crabbe, lost his life in a mysterious way. The background of this tragic and mysterious death of Buster Crabbe was set forth by the New York paper Red Star From the articles of Immy Stendath, we can see that Buster Crabbe was very popular in the United States. He organized a movement in the Army to protest against the investigation of un-American Activities against Cooper, Chaplin, and other film stars.

"The beginning of Buster Crabbe's tragedy was when he found valuable documents, through which documents be could give light and prove the criminal and aggressive plans of reactionary circles in America.

"ON MAY 31, Buster Crabbe came to the apartment of the well-known film actor, Spencer Tracy, also well known as a "Leftist" and they had a long talk in the presence of Tyrone Power. The next day, Crabbe, with Power and Cooper, left for New York to see Henry Wallace. When he (Crabbe) came back home, someone called him on the phone and advised him to stop his activities, because it might cause "unpleasant" results, but he (Crabbe) was not afraid.

"From New York he left by plane for Washington intending to see Mr. Truman, and to show the results of his discovery. But Mr. Truman did not receive him. Then Crabbe, in accordance with Wallace, Elliott Roosevelt, Eleanor Roosevelt, LaGuardia and Stettinius, decided to publish the documents.

"Also prominent in this affair was Sumner Welles, well known secretary for foreign affairs and propagator of the Truman doctrine, and Senator Bilbo, with a bad reputation for racial theory, persecution of Negroes, and inspirator of the KKK. They openly advised Crabbe to stop his work, for which he was not invited to carry on. But Mr. Crabbe did not stop.

"On June 3, on Broadway, on the corner of 7th ave., Crabbe was riddled with bullets from a machine-gun from a closed car. This tragic death of Crabbe provoked terrific unrest in Hollywood. At the funeral of Buster Crabbe 150,000 men were present, and the coffin was carried by Comrades Gary Cooper, Tyrone Power, George Brent and Al St. John.

"THIS CASE is very characteristic of the conditions which are now prevailing in the United States. This is the method of Fascist liquidation with a political opponent. It is quite possible that this crime was committed by the KKK and inspired by the elements who were interested in Crabbe's disappearance—that he stop talking.

"Cooper and Power, before they were imprisoned, stated that their imprisonment would not kill the ideals for which they fought. Cooper said, 'I go to prison, but I will come back from prison, and Bilbo, William Hearst, Baruch and Rockefeller will not be for long masters of this country. They want me to be quiet, but I will tell the world the things they are doing.' Alan Ladd, on this occasion, said: 'Very soon you will hear the real truth about the persons who are putting me in prison.'

"The death of Crabbe did not mark the death or liquidation of his revelations. His revelations are well known. Bilbo and his companions who are working openly or secretly will have too much work to be willing people on the corner of Broadway. They can't liquidate all of these American citizens who are against reactionary bands, which bands are not only dangerous to the United States, but to all the world because of their criminal plans."

The following article first appeared in Italy and was published in several Communist papers there:

"GARY COOPER, who took part in the fights for the independence of Spain, gave a speech before a crowd of 90,000 in Philadelphia on the occasion of the consecration of the banner of the Philadelphia Communist Federation.

"Among other things, he said: 'In our days it is the greatest honor to be a Communist. I wish the whole world could understand what we Communists really are. There could be nobody then who might say that we are enemies of mankind and peace. Those who want to discuss Communist ideas should first get to know them. Americans learn this with great difficulty.

"Millions of people from other contingents regard America as a center of modern civilization, but only we Americans can see how false this opinion is. Let us be frank. Our country is a country of gold, silver, petrol and great railways. But at the same time it is a country where Rockefeller, Ford and Rothschild use tear-gas against striking workers fighting for their legitimate rights. Our country is the fatherland of Lincoln and Roosevelt, but at the same time it is a country of men like Senator Bilbo and many of his type. It is a country where redskins were exterminated by arms and brandy.'

"A WELL-KNOWN American film actor, Tyrone Power, who was in 1939 second and in 1940 fourth of the list of money-bringing actors, has been for 1½ years a member of the 'angels' section of the American Communist Party. He took part in this war as a captain in the United States Air Forces. He fought in one of the American bomber divisions and also took part in the fights of the Yugoslavian partisans. He received high decorations for action in the Pacific, as well as Yugoslavian decorations.

"Tyrone Power is not a passive, but an active member of the Communist Party. He presided in February of this year at the Communist Congress at Kansas City. He gave a press interview during which he said: 'I am a Communist deeply convinced of the righteousness of my ideals. I became a Communist because I found that this is the only way to create a new world and a new happy society.'"

Britain's Half-Control Problem

LONDON.—England's Labor government continues to enforce wartime controls over a large sector of British life. Since the amount of food, shelter and clothing is limited, the government feels compelled to ration it in such a way that each person receives his or her fair share.

CHILDS

This calls for an extensive organization and a great deal of bookkeeping. The housewife must deal with a complicated system of ration points and free points. Behind shuttered windows lights burn late in neighborhood shops as the shopkeeper struggles to balance his ration accounts.

In some respects this system seems to have worked very well. Families in the lower income brackets feel they are getting just as good a deal as the rich. In fact, you can hear many people say that they are better off than they were before the war, with children getting free orange juice and free cod-liver oil.

But now that the government has come smack up against the unbalance of exports and imports and against the awesome deficit of dollars, the end has come to what the Tory press calls "a fools' purgatory." The government is trying to take the essential steps to meet the facts of life with the necessary realism.

The real question for the Labor cabinet is whether it is possible to plan for a society that is half controlled and half uncontrolled. The proportion might be more nearly three-fourths controlled and one-fourth free.

The more conscientious cabinet ministers, and particularly the earnest and intensely hard-working Sir Stafford Cripps, are deeply troubled. They believe in the experiment now going forward here in "social democracy," to use Sir Stafford's own phrase. At the same time, however, they recognize it may not work in an economy half free and half controlled.

DOES THIS mean, then, that the government must go the whole way on controls? An important step, for example, would be the direction of labor. Under the present law, a man out of employment who goes to a government exchange seeking work is given a choice of four or five jobs in essential industry. If it is necessary to leave his family and live in another neighborhood, he is given a living allowance. But he cannot be ordered to take a particular job. Nor can women be compelled to go into essential industry, as they were in wartime.

That is the gap in the control system. Through that gap many people filter into black or gray-market activities. The other evening, the BBC, in one of a series of radio programs on England's future, put on a former service man just returned, who discussed seriously whether he should take an approved job at a comparatively low wage or should take something in the gray market at a much higher rate.

This gap cannot be closed. It would be political suicide to try to impose such controls. The very grave danger, therefore, is that more and more of the economy will slip out from under present halfway controls.

What this can mean and how to prevent it is a subject that is receiving ever more serious consideration. Liberal economists, who recognize the need to keep at least a minimum of controls in the present period of scarcity, argue cogently that the government should put more confidence in the price system and the law of supply and demand.

"THE TRUE choice," F. L. Paish of the University of London wrote recently, "is not between plan and no plan, but between planning through the price system and planning against it."

Paish denounced the kind of controls that make for "conflicting incentives." Under such conflicts respect for law and government breaks down. The end, Paish warned, is "frustration, poverty and perhaps disaster."

A similar warning came from W. Manning Dacey, economic adviser to Lloyd's Bank, speaking on the BBC, which is, incidentally, a government corporation. Dacey pointed to the serious inflation in England—an inflation not in the pound that goes to buy rationed necessities, but in the pound spent on unrationed commodities, such as tobacco, drinks and entertainment. The pound spent on these commodities is worth only a little more than a third of the prewar pound. The pound spent on food will still buy about four-fifths of what it bought before 1939.

The government's newest austerity measures, and those yet to come, will inevitably hit hard, especially on the low and middle-income groups. Conscientious Sir Stafford Cripps is afraid that persons living on old-age pensions and those on the lowest salaries will be seriously harmed. Adjustments, complicated and difficult, will have to be made for extreme hardship cases. That is, of course, the great difficulty in a controlled or a partially controlled economy. You press one button intended to change one set of circumstances and you are immediately confronted with another condition in need of correction.

But Britain's Labor planners are not ready to admit defeat in this experiment in "social democracy." Whether they will continue to have a majority of the country with them is something else again.

British-U. S. Accord Seen On Zone Costs

By John M. Hightower
Post Reporter

The United States and Britain are expected to reach agreement, probably early next week, on an arrangement by which this country will assume around 250 million dollars of British costs in the western zones of Germany.

The agreement is also expected to provide that the United States will assume a greater authority in top economic agencies of the Anglo-American zones. Officials are emphatis in declaring, however, that this increased voice in economic affairs will not in any way infringe on the basic economic and political partnership which the western powers have developed there.

Decision Reported

Americank and British officials on October 8 began discussing a British request for the United States to take over Britain dollar costs in Germany. The talks were suspended last week while several critical questions were referred to th British cabint for decision. That decision is now understood to have been reached, at least in large part, and one highly placed informant predicted that the talks would be resumed shortly and agreement reached early next week.

The United States, it was learned, has already agreed "in principle" to the British proposal which was made because the British are short of dollars. Major requirements in the western German zones are food and other supplies which, in the main, can be bought only with dollars.

Figures Revised

Information from diplomatic and official sources gave this picture of the situation as it stands today:

The British have been spending about 400 million dollars a year to maintain the civilian economy of their part of the merged British-American zones. Of that amount 280 million dollars has actually been spent in dollars and the rest, amounting to 120 million dollars, has been spent in pounds sterling.

During the negotiations here the British are understood to have indicated that they would be able to buy more of the supplies required in Germany with pound sterling, the total of the increase being about 70 million dollars. This, under the prospective new arrangement would raise the British expenditure in pounds to about 190 million dollars and fix the new total cost to be assumed by the United States for next year at about 210 million dollars.

In addition, the British asked for relief from some remaining dollar expenditures this year beginning in early October. This reportedly totals about 40 million dollars.

Thus the grand total of prospective additional American expenditures in Germany from the present through next year would be approximately 250 million dollars.

Armed Forces To Keep Part Of 'Surplus'

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

More than five billion dollars worth of Army, Navy and Air Force goods and equipment — originally slated to be sold as war surplus—will be retained by the military services for future use.

This recent decision of the armed services was disclosed by War Assets Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn yesterday in a report to Congress.

It is based on a determination by the defense forces to increase "military stock levels," Littlejohn said.

Some Recalled

"Some material earmarked for Universal Military Training and congressional action, will not be other programs, contingent upon declared surplus," he added.

The War Assets Administrator also reported that some goods already declared surplus have been withdrawn from public offering. They include clothing and other supplies sent or scheduled for Europe under the Turkish-Greek aid or other relief programs.

Littlejohn previously had informed Congress that a maximum of 34 billions in war surplus property in the United States would be vailable for disposal. As a result of the military decision, he now declares that the maximum probably will be 29½ billions.

Plant Sale Pushed

Because of the policy change, the report declared, WAA's total disposal job will be nearly 90 per cent complete next summer. An inventory of about $3,100,000,000 is forecast for next July 1, three quarters of which will be real property.

In an effort to get rid of some plants which have gone begging to date, Littlejohn revealed that he was assigning some of the "white elephants" to specific brokers for sale. They will collect up to 5 per cent commission.

Inventories on hand totaled $7,600,000,000 on September 30, it was said, of which $2,193,000,000 are wartime-built plants.

Overseas Sales Report

At the same time, Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett sent a report of the Foreign Liquidation Commissioner to Congress which showed that 10 billion dollars worth of United States property overseas has been declared surplus and that 82 per cent of it has been disposed of to date. The return to the Government was 22 per cent of the original cost.

Originally valued at $8,200,000,000, the goods sold for $1,804,000,000.

Senate Inquiry Of Hughes Set For Wednesday

By The Associated Press

Reopening of the Senate's inquiry into Howard Hughes' wartime airplane contracts with the Government yesterday was set for next Wednesday instead of Monday.

The postponement will allow the Senate War Investigating Committee to complete early next week its hearings on Arabian oil transactions involving some major American oil companies.

Committee Chairman Brewster (R., Me.) and Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.), chairman of a subcommittee which will hold the Hughes' hearings, announced the delay.

Ferguson said Hughes and his publicity man, John W. Meyer, definitely will be recalled to testify. He said "expense accounts" for parties on which Meyer already has admitted he spent thousands of dollars entertaining Army officers and others will be taken up again.

Man Rebels When Refused Pay Data On Girl Friend

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 31 (AP).—Manager Francis Donohue of the local Social Security Office told today of an unidentified man who breezed into his office, gave his girl friend's name and demanded:

"I'd like to know her salary to be sure she is earning enough to get married on."

When Donohue recovered sufficiently to tell him that such matters were confidential, the man, insisting it was his "right as an American citizen" to receive the information, tore up his own Social Security card and stalked out, vowing he never again would pay social security taxes.

He failed to explain how he planned to evade the tax which is deducted at his salary source—1 per cent of the first $3000.

Creedon Quits Housing Job To Do Atomic Energy Work

By The Associated Press

Frank R. Creedon quit his job as Federal Housing Expediter yesterday to take one in private industry "expediting the atomic energy program."

Associates said they understand he will go to work for the General Electric Corporation, in charge of a large construction program in connection with development of atomic energy.

General Electric is building a large atomic energy laboratory, called Knolls Laboratory, near Schenectady, N. Y.

This will be one of four principal laboratories authorized to do atomic work under Government contract. It will specialize in the industrial power applications of atomic energy.

In recent months a number of hitherto atomic secrets have been "declassified" and the Atomic Energy Commission has announced a policy of attemptoing to spread atomic energy and knowledge of a non-secret nature among American scientises as rapidly as possible.

Creedon is a comparatively old hand in the new field of atomic energy. He managed the construction of the great atomic project at Oak Ridge, Tenn., during the war.

Fifty-one years old, he is a native of Brocton, Mass., and a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is a construction engineer by profession and entered Government service via the Public Works Administration in 1934.

Creedon will be ridding himself of some headaches in leaving the housing expediter's job. It was his duty to pass on recommendations from local rent boards and the wrath of labor union leaders and others fell upon him for approving a blanket increase in the Louisville, Ky., area.

The law requires Creedon to follow the decisions of the local boards if they are "appropriately substantiated."

In writing of his decision on the atomic energy job offer, Creedon told Mr. Truman:

"I weighed carefully in my mind which would render the greater public service, my present assignment or the help that I could contribute in expediting the atomic energy program."

Mr. Truman replied that Creedon has served his country "faithfully and well" and that he was accepting the resignation with reluctance.

Taking Creedon's housing job in an acting capacity will be Tighe E. Woods who has been deputy housing expediter. Woods, a native of Chicago and a Notre Dame graduate, came to the Government in 1942 as an OPA rent examiner in the Chicago regional office.

Farm Cooperatives Taxed Only 1%, Treasury Reports

By the United Press

The Treasury reported last night that the Nation's 10,150 farm cooperatives were doing about five billion dollars of business annually but paid only 10 million dollars to 20 million dollars a year, or less than 1 per cent in taxes.

It pointed out that more than one half of the organization are—by law—tax exempt.

On the other hand, it said, regular business concerns with annual gross sales of 59 billion dollars are paying two billion dollars—or almost 4 per cent— in tax levies.

The Treasury said this is the reason why some businessmen and Congressmen have charged that farm cooperatives "snjoy unjustifiable tax advantages over their (regular trade) competitors."

The Treasury announced is finding in a 58-page report on "The Taxation of Farmers' Cooperative Associations." The report will be forwarded to the House Ways and Means Committee which begins hearings next Tuesday on revision of the tax structure.

The report made no specific recommendations for taxing cooperatives.

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives said the report "completely disproved" charges that the Co-ops enjoy unfair tax advantages.

John H. Davis, executive secretary of the council, said the report showed that Cooperatives have been growing at about the same rate as other enterprises, and he insisted there is no truth in charges that they are destroying private business.

He said that even if dividends paid by tax-exempt Cooperatives were taxed, they would yield only about $4,400,000 annually to the Government.

Farm Cooperatives began to develop more than 100 years ago, when farmers banded together to obtain marketing facilities they could not afford individually. Today, one farmer out of three is a Co-op member, and Cooperatives are widespread throughout California, Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Senior Senator Capper To Seek Renomination

Topeka, Kans., Oct. 31 (AP).—Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas' 82-year-old veteran senior senator, said today that he will be a candidate for renomination for the United States Senate in 1948 Republican primary.

"If I should leave the Senate," he said, "the chairmanship of the Senate Committee on Agriculture (which Capper heads) would go to a State far remover from Kansas and the midcontinent area, just at a time when conditions demand Kansas have the strongest possible representation and influence in that important committee." (Senator George D. Aiken of Vermont is next to Capper in committee seniority.—Editor's note.)

Most Voters Favor Holiday On Presidential Election Day

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 31.—With organized labor vowing to retaliate at the polls next November for passage of the Taft-Hartley Act, a number of labor leaders have suggested that Election Day be declared a national holiday in order to encourage workers to turn out at the polls in full force.

A majority of voters would approve the step, a Nation-wide survey by the Institute shows.

Representative voters in every section of the country were asked this question:

Would you like to see the day on which presidential elections are held (once every four years) declared a national holiday?

|---|---|
| Declare Holiday | 52% |
| Not Declare | 33 |
| No Opinion | 15 |

Members of labor unions were found to be somewhat more in favor of the proposal than the average voter. The vote of union members:

|---|---|
| Declare Holiday | 57% |
| No Opinon | 14 |

The United States, despite its being one of the foremost champions of democracy, has a poor record on voter-turnout. It ranks behind Australia, France, England, Canada and Italy. Only a little more than half of the potential voters in the 1944 presidential election voted.

In the congressional elections two years previously, when probably the most decisive problems in the nation's history were posed to the national legislators, only one-third of the potential voters chose to cast ballots.

An Act of Congress in 1845 fixed the Tuesday after the first Monday in November as the date for the choice of presidential electors. Most States already have a legal holiday on election days. Many businesses and factories continue work, however, making hourly arrangements for employes to vote.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 31 (U.P.).—Four murderers, three of them sentenced to die for killing a prison guard, were put to death in the gas chamber at Central Prison today in the second largest execution in North Carolina history.

Brazilian Diplomats Released by Russia

Moscow, Oct. 31 (U.P.).—Members of the Brazilian Embassy delegation, "interned" in the National Hotel, were released tonight and promised visas for their departure. They planned to leave for Rio de Janeiro as soon as possible.

Ellie's Working On a First Trust

By Richard L. Coe

PEOPLE ABOUT THE TOWN: Eleanor Powell, known to some as our finest tap dancer, to others as the wife of Glenn "Gilda" Ford, solves the career wife problem by working three months, then staying home with 2½-year-old Peter the next three . . . Dancing these nights at Club Cairo, she shows a neat flair for comedy which pictures so far have ignored . . . She's now reading an RKO script and mulling offers from glamorous South America . . . All so she can chip in on the family manse in Hollywood . . . Glenn didn't want Ellie to work . . . But his years in the Marines whittled down their savings . . . When lost drivers began turning around in their hilltop driveway, threatening the toddling Peter, a less dangerous play place was vital, so Ellie made her suggestion: a new house would cost lots of money she could easily earn . . . Glenn gave in . . . He's finished "The Man from Colorado," a Technicolor epic his wife thinks is his best yet; soon he goes into "Carmen," with his old flame Gilda, Rita Hayworth . . . While in town Ellie will be visiting Children's Hospital and some veterans' wards . . . Ellie's remarkable at remembering old friends . . . And one of the first to greet her was Joe Osterman, the motorcycle cop who used to guide Ellie through all those Roosevelt Birthday Balls . . . Did Ellie remember his name? You betcha.

MELVIN HILDRETH, the town's No. 1 Circus Fan, is pretty likely to be skipping down to Richmond Monday or Tuesday . . . Mel reports that Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey are completing their full circle . . . They always come through in the springtime and finish up at the same point each fall.

THE FRED PRESSBURGERS are at the Wardman . . . Fred is New York-bound from Hollywood, where he's been assistant to Zoltan Korda, producer of the first Aldous Huxley story to reach the screen . . . This is now called "Mortal Coils," but you can expect a title change . . . The story is Huxley's own screen play version of his short story, "The Gioconda Smile," a delicate mystery yarn which first appeared in a collection titled, "Mortal Coils" . . . Charles Boyer, Jessica Tandy and Rachel Kempson (Mrs. Michael Redgrave) head the cast; it should be out around Christmas . . . Sounds like a most promising film . . . Fred's wife is Geraldine Mavor, the publicity gal who must have made something of an exploitation record with "For Whom the Bell Tolls" and "Duel in the Sun" . . . His father is Emeric Pressburger of "The Archers," who now is working on Somerset Maugham's story, "Then and Now."

SAM CUMMINS, of the Pix, is rubbing his hands over "Ecstasy." . . . This is the original, un-cut version of Hedy Lamarr's first film . . . Now an accepted American star, Hedy has tried unsuccessfully to stop release of the film . . . "On the advice of counsel," reports Sam, "we are proceeding with our plans to release 'Ecstasy' in its original form." . . . Though the boys are plugging "Ecstasy" as "a beautiful, artistic film," they don't hold back from reminding you that in its Hedy takes a swim in her birthday suit . . . Hedy was 16 when the picture was made 12 years ago in Czechoslovakia . . . Somehow we don't blame the lady for being miffed.

HELEN McENTYRE of Community Education reports that though "The Lady Vanishes" wasn't received in time for last Sunday's showing, it's set for Sunday night at the group's new quarters, 914 20th st. nw. . . . Other Sunday night revival programs include a Chaplin festival, "Crime and Punishment" and "The Spanish Earth" . . . Admission is by series ticket only, sold in groups of three or six for $2 or $3.50 . . . For further information call her at Emerson 7159.

OPEN AIR theater managers, until yesterday's chilly snap, were pretty certain of keeping their drive-in theaters open until Thanksgiving anyway, possibly longer . . . Most certain of the lot is Don King's place on the Richmond highway, which reports that all E. M. Lowe drive-ins will stay open till Thursday, November 27 . . . Paul Foley's Airport drive-in is set until at least the 19th (when Danny Kaye will be seen in "Wonder Man"), and Sidney Lust's on the Baltimore pike at Beltsville will certainly be open for several more weeks.

JOE DOSH, the WINX record man, is playing a neat game of ball with Walt Disney and Keith's . . . Joe's got the details for youngsters to get in for free when Disney's latest, "Fun and Fancy Free," opens at Keith's . . . He'll explain this afternoon on his WINX record party between 1 and 4 o'clock.

NEIGHBORHOOD THEATER managers have a full day today with special Halloween parties for the youngsters . . . But they can relax at one of their own tonight . . . The Variety Club's spilling one set to Morgan Baer's music.

High Army Officials Study Treason Charge

By Drew Pearson

The most bizarre charge of American treason in the history of the war is gradually unfolding before investigators of the War and Justice Departments.

Chandler

Douglas Chandler, who broadcast against his country from Germany, has now been given a life sentence. Ezra Pound, the bearded poet who broadcast from Italy, has been locked up in the St. Elizabeths booby hatch. Axis Sally is still in the custody of the United States Army in Germany.

But meanwhile Lieut. Martin James Monti of St. Louis, who did a sort of Rudolf Hess in reverse, landing behind enemy lines in Italy and becoming a member of the elite Nazi SS Corps, is still in the United States Army.

His case, for some strange reason, has been bottled up in the War and Justice Departments for months. But now, two years after the war, it is finally being reviewed by highest officials.

Army records show that Lieut. Monti, an Air Corps flier, deserted the United States Air Corps 126th Replacement Battalion, Karachi, India, on October 2, 1944, hitch-hiking by plane to Italy. He then stole a P-38 fighter plane, October 13, 1944, at Pomigliana, and came down behind the enemy lines. When later court-martialed, Monti claimed that he was shot down. However, investigation after the court-martial showed that he landed voluntarily, and when captured by the Germans told them that he was fighting on the wrong side of the war and wanted to join them.

The Germans naturally were suspicious. They figured Monti was a spy. However, he became so earnest in his protestations that he wanted to fight on the Nazi side that eventually he was taken into their councils. Monti became a part of several radio-conference broadcasts and at one time conducted a tour of newspapermen through territory which the Nazis had just recaptured from the Russians.

Joins SS Elite Corps

MOST AMAZING development, however, was that eventually Monti enlisted in the elite Nazi SS Corps, made up of Hitler's most fanatical fighting men.

When finally apprehended by the United States Army, Monti was on a train with other German troops in the uniform of the SS Corps. He claimed that he had stolen the uniform and was using it with the help of the Italian underground to escape from Italy. He also claimed that he had been engaged in getting intelligence for the United States Army.

However, subsequent investigation showed that Monti had not used the SS uniform as a means of escape, but had formally taken the oath as an SS officer early in 1945.

Monti was court-martialed by the United States Army on a charge of being AWOL and stealing an airplane. For the latter he was given 15 years. No charge of treason was brought against him. The Army at that time was not able to make a thorough probe of Monti's operations behind enemy lines.

However, the most interesting phase of the Monti treason case is that his 15-year jail sentence later was reduced by the Army to nothing, provided he would reenlist as a private. This he did on February 11, 1946. Who persuaded the Army to make this drastic reduction is not known. However, it is important, for this agreement may prevent the Army from trying Monti a second time.

Later, when Justice Department lawyers began probing other treason cases in Germany, the activities of Lieutenant Monti turned up. After months of mysterious pigeonholing, the Justice Department is now examining the case. If the Army decides it cannot try Monti again, Justice Department officials say they expect to move in.

Friendship Train

NATION-WIDE response to the Train of Friendship has been beyond any expectation. It now looks as if the chief worry would be whether the railroads and New York Harbor will be swamped.

In addition to enthusiasm, the Train of Friendship also has its problems. One is the difficulty of refusing types of food which can't easily be transported or which aren't badly needed in Europe.

Most important factor to be remembered is that Western Europe last summer suffered a severe drought. This left the grain crops a minus quantity. And since the main diet of all Europeans is bread, the chief need for European relief is wheat or wheat flour. Other foods equally needed are dried beans, dried peas, evaporated milk, sugar, macaroni and spaghetti.

Foreign export of canned goods, especially those containing large amounts of water, are not economical for shipment abroad.

Another problem in shipping grain and flour is weevil. That's why the help of local grain elevator or farm co-ops is important. Weevil can easily be prevented, but it takes regular shippers to prepare the car in advance.

Think of it, 85,700 houses in August, 88,000 started in September . . . # Defiant O'Connor Heads Chandler Fight Into Court

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31.—Well, baseball is court-bound, and Commissioner A. B. Chandler perhaps has caught himself a Tartar in mild-mannered, soft-voiced, 58-year-old Leslie M. O'Connor, suspended general manager of the suspended Chicago White Sox.

POVICH

On the day he was rebuffed by the American League, which voted, 7 to 0, not to involve itself in O'Connor's mutiny against the authority of Commissioner Chandler, the White Sox boss struck back hard. And now it's Chandler on the defensive.

He'll have Chandler into court next week, and let a judge tell the commissioner where his authority starts and ends. O'Connor says Chandler has overstepped his powers in suspending him and the White Sox for signing a high school player and he's not loath about defying that old bugaboo, baseball's traditional fear of the courts of the land.

THIS MAN O'CONNOR didn't work for the late Judge Landis as his right bower for 24 years without absorbing much of the astute technique of the judge. Unlike the legend of the great stone face of the mountain, O'Connor has not come to look like Landis, a difficult trick anyway, but his worship of the late Commissioner may pay off heavily in his battle against Chandler.

O'Connor's abrupt action today in invoking the courts smacks somewhat of Landis despite the latter's success in avoiding court action during his regime. The manner in which O'Connor braved the wrath of baseball bosses generally by deciding to involve baseball in the courts, savors of Landis' own fortright action in another case.

That was the day a few years ago when Landis was hearing the plea of Bill Cox, Phillies' owner who was booted out of baseball on charges of betting on games. Attorney Paul Lloyd Stryker, acting forCox, told Landis in an open hearing, "We have finished our case. We could produce more evidence, but it would be bad for baseball."

THAT WAS ALL Stryker needed to say on behalf of his client. Landis, before answering, looked up at the attorney, and inquired: "So you think you can introduce further evidence except that it would be bad for baseball?"

"Yes, your honor," said Stryker.

"Well, then out with it!" thundered the judge. "If it's going to be bad for baseball, that doesn't make any difference. I want to hear it." Cox's attorney retreated, and decided against any further evidence.

That's who Chandler is fighting now, Landis' man O'Connor, who obviously isn't frightened by any assertions that what he might do would be bad for baseball. He said today "Baseball has nothing to fear from the courts if it goes in with clean hands." O'Connor apparently knows when his hands are clean.

HE'S GOING to try to beat Chandler in court on a specific rule. O'Connor is willing to risk defeat on that point, but you'd have to say he isn't going before the judge empty-handed. O'Connor knows more about the rules than Chandler or anybody else in baseball. Why? Well, in his 24 years with Landis, he just about wrote the book.

The present situation couldn't have happened under Landis, for a couple of reasons. Firstly, the canny O'Connor would have been on Landis' side, and not the adversary. Secondly, Landis would have met the challenge simply by saying to the club owners, "Bear me out, or I'll resign." They always trembled at that threat by the old judge.

Chandler is probably correct in the broad spirit of the rule he is trying to enforce against O'Connor. The club owners tacitly admit that. But as long as he is going into court, Chandler couldn't have made a worse match than with Landis' man, O'Connor.

VPI Blasts GW, 42-6; Beasley Runs Wild

Ray Beasley and his Virginia Polytechnic Institute teammates rolled over George Washington, 42-6, before 10,000 chilled fans at Griffith Stadium last night.

It was GW's homecoming, and the VPI Gobblers weren't a bit cooperative.

Beasley, in particular, did his best to ruin the occasion with three touchdowns, including a pair of 60-yard gallops in the first four minutes.

FIRST PERIOD

George Washington kicked off to the V. P. I. 35. After one running play, Ray Beasley of Tech broke into the clear over his left tackle and raced 60 yards to a touchdown. Tackle Ross Orr kicked the point and the Gobblers led, 7-0. George Washington couldn't gain following the Tech kickoff and Bill Spangler punted out of bounds on the Tech 40. On the first play Quarterback Floyd Bowles flipped a lateral to Beasley and the speedy V. P. I. back raced around left end, picked up blockers and went 60 yards for another touchdown. Orr again kicked the point and after four minutes of the opening period, V. P. I. led 14-0. Another V. P. I. drive was stopped on the 23 and Tech came back with a Spangler kick to the G. W. 37 as the quarter ended.

SECOND PERIOD

Tech's Sterling Wingo ran Spangler's punt back from his 40 to the G. W. 37 soon after the second period started. On the next play Wingo, a freshman speedster, took the ball on a reverse play around left end and scampered 37 yards to the third VPI score. Orr's kick was perfect and at 2:10 of the period, VPI led, 21-0. Joe Bernot of GW took the Tech kickoff and raced it back from his 15 to midfield. Frank Cavallo passed to End Charlie Gunner for 13 yards then whipped another to End Stan Burak for a first down on the VPI 17. Cavallo was thrown back to the 27 on an attempted pass and VPI took over as GW could only reach the 18. After an exchange of punts, Cavallo ran around left end, was tackled and lateralled to Gurd Dave Howell, who went 48 yards down the sidelines to the Gobbler six-yard line. A penalty took the ball to the eleven and GW couldn't go any further as a flurry of passes dropped incomplete. Score at half: VPI, 21; George Washington, 0.

THIRD QUARTER

Cavallo fumbled on his 40 two plays after the second-half kickoff and VPI Fullback Horace Pearce recovered. Beasley ripped off 13 yards to the GW 27 and two plays later Bowles whipped a looper to Dick DeShazo in the end zone. Orr booted the point and Tech led, 28-0. Tech kicked off again, Cavallo fumbled on the first running play, with VPI's Harry Walton falling on the ball on the GW 34. Two running plays carried to the 21, then Bowles pegged to Don Whiteman, who was knocked out of bounds on the Colonial 4. Beasley hit center for his third toucdown. Orr converted. Score: VPI, 35; GW, 0.

A GW drive of 42 yards after the kickoff ended as Burak, attempting to pass on an end-around play, threw into the arms of Gobbler Guard H. W. Dutton. Whiteman raced 28 yards tothe Colonial 52. An offside penalty set Tech back to the 37, from where Dave Thomas went over right tackle, cut to the outside, straight-armed Hank Bartelloni on the 15 and scored standing up. Orr kicked the point and VPI led, 42-0.

FOURTH PERIOD

G. W. drove 70 yards for a touchdown with Howie Williams, Joe Bernot and Pete Labukas racking up six first downs on the march. Bernot dove over from the 1-foot line after a 11-yard pass from Cavallo to Labukas put the ball on the 9. Cavallo's try for point was blocked. Score: V. P. I., 42; George Washington, 6.

'O'Connor Bullheaded, 'Happy' Whipped Him,' Griffith Says

"THAT FELLOW (O'Connor) was just bullheaded and Chandler whipped him."

That's how Nat Owner Clark Griffith summed up yesterday's action by American League directors who voted unanimously to support Commissioner Chandler in his legal tiff with Leslie O'Connor, general manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Griffith, who was represented at the Cleveland session by his stepson, Calvin Griffith, hailed the decision as a clearcut triumph for Chandler, of whom he said:

"Chandler is making a good commissioner. He has his feet on the ground and he was absolutely right in this case.

O'CONNOR WAS in the wrong. He knew the rule because he was advised of it twice by bulletins from the commissioner's office and again personally by the commissioner."

When informed O'Connor would take the case to a Federal court and seek a restraining order against Chandler, Griffith said:

"I don't like to see that because baseball has always settled its problems in its own house, but O'Connor is just being stubborn about this and will get licked again.

"We can't stop him from going to court, but he'll lose. The league's action didn't surprise me. I felt all along that Chandler was 100 per cent right. O'Connor defied him and lost.

Tech Wallops Anacostia, 26-0; Central Defeats Wilson, 21-12

Just when an upset loomed, McKinley Tech's Trainers took advantage of a pair of breaks and went on to wallop Anacostia, 26-0, yesterday at Anacostia Field.

The victory was Tech's fifth straight in interhigh competition and preserved the Trainers' unscored-on record. Tech has tallied 114 points in league play.

Cecil Gray, Bugs Thompson and Bill Werber sparked the Trainers after Anacostia had held Tech even through the first half.

Gray pounced on an Anacostia fumble soon after the second half opened and Thompson sprinted 13 yards for a touchdown two plays later. Gray kicked the point.

Following the Tech kickoff, Speedy Kent fumbled on the Anacostia 28 and Trainer Tackle Julius Poms recovered. Gray, Thompson and Flea Fletcher lugged the ball to the one. Then Gray plunged across for the score and kicked his second extra point.

Tech notched another touchdown in the third period. Following Ralph Frasier's punt out of bounds on the Anacostia 49, Werber broke over his left tackle, cut to the outside and went all the way. Gray's extra point try was quarter. Werber pegged 30 yards wide.

Tech added another in the final to End Jim McCauley, who made a leaping catch while cutting across field and sprinted 40 more yards to pay dirt.

An 84-yard touchdown run by Jimmy Pantos in the third period sparked Central's Vikings to a 21-12 victory over Woodrow Wilson's Green Tigers yesterday before 2000 fans at Central Stadium.

Pantos' sparkling gallop came midway in the quarter on a quick-opening play. He was surrounded by four Wilson players on his 20, but somehow managed to break away.

Only Wilson's right halfback Julian Self had a crack at Pantos on the Tiger 20 but missed and was injured on the play. He was removed from the game and taken to Garfield Hospital where he is suffering from a brain concussion and a possible fractured skull.

The victory, fifth in interhigh for the Vikings, enabled them to remain in a first place tie with McKinley Tech's Trainers who beat Aanacostia yesterday.

Pantos' lengthy run stopped a promising Wilson rally and turned the tide decisively in the Vikings' favor, putting them top top, 14-6. The Wilson defeat was its fifth of the season, and pushed the Tigers deeper into their last-place tie with Roosevelt.

It was not an easy victory for the heavily-favored Vikings. They were held to a scoreless tie in the first quarter. In the second, they finally broke the ice, with Pantos and Dale Leathery pacing a 53-yard drive to the Wilson one. Leathery smashed over, and Billy Denikos place kicked his first of three extra points.

The Tigers pulled to within one point of a tie as the half ended on a 52-yard march. A pass from Danny Ventries to Mole Janigian covered the last two yards. Bud Reilly's pass for extra point was incomplete.

Central's third touchdown was set up on a pass interception by Center Moon Million, who ran back a Ventries punt from the Tiger 25 to the 10. Ross Keith rammed over from the two.

Wilson scored on the last play of the game when reserve Center Eddie Frager intercepted a flat pass by Central's Bill Giglio and raced 75 yards for a touchdown. Pat O'Neill's pass for extra point was incomplete.

Eastern Downs Roosevelt, 13-0

Eastern's Ramblers, sparked by Sal De Giorgi and Bernie Shipley, defeated a game but outclassed Roosevelt Rough Rider eleven, 13-0, before 2000 fans yesterday at Eastern Stadium.

De Giorgi directed the team smoothly from the "T" formation and Shipley tore holes in the Roosevelt forward wall.

Eastern scored early in the second period when Shipley went through center for 38 yards. Sonny Wesley's attempted placement was no good.

Eastern blew a scoring chance in the fourth quarter when Roosevelt held them on downs on the Rough Rider one-inch line.

Sox Official Will Test 'Happy's' Authority

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Cleveland, Oct. 31.—Leslie M. O'Connor, suspended general manager of the Chicago White Sox, today defiantly declared baseball is headed for a courtroom battle that will test the authority of Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

O'Connor, undeterred by the expressed desire of American League club owners that he not bring court action, declared he would seek an injunction against Chandler next week before a Cincinnati judge.

Emerging from a seven-hour special meeting of American League representatives, O'Connor answered with a flat "No" when asked if he would pay the $500 fine levied against him by Chandler for signing a high school player.

O'Connor's statement followed a statement issued by American League President Will Harridge who said:

"Like any other business, baseball always is anxious to stay out of the courts. But the American League has no right to prevent any club from going into the courts."

There was league support for Commissioner Chandler, however, in an earlier announcement by Harridge who stated the league had passed a resolution authorizing him to appoint a member of the league executive council in the event O'Connor is unable to act.

O'Connor, by Chandler's order, is deprived of his place on the five-man executive council and the Chicago team is declared inoperative in the league until the fine is paid. The vote to appoint a new council member was 7 to 0, with O'Connor refraining from voting "on an issue in which I am involved."

O'Connor, for 24 years, chief aide to the late Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, matter of factly waived down any hesitancy on his part in taking the issue into court, despite baseball's traditional aversion to courts.

"They desired me to bring no action, but I see no need of baseball to fear the courts," he said.

A Case of Misinterpretation?

At one point, when O'Connor stated that the issue would be settled either by his decision to pay the fine or by a restraining order that would make Chandler's ruling against him inoperative, he was asked which course he would take.

"You can judge from what I already have said what I intend to do," he said.

O'Connor declared his case would be based on Chandler's misinterpretation of the rule against high school players, which the White Sox official helped to draft while a member of the executive council, last year.

"George Zoeterman, the Chicago boy we signed, was attending a private school," said O'Connor. "The rule against signing school boys applied only to schools associated in the National Federation of High Schools. Chandler knows that."

O'Connor said he views his intended court action as a step toward clarifying the Commissioner's authority for the good of baseball . . . "Chandler attempted to broaden the rule against signing school players merely by issuing bulletins from his office that all schools, public and private, were covered by the rule. We shall see whether we have rule by edict or rule by constituted authority."

He signed young Zoeterman deliberately in defiance of Chandler's

'I am Appreciative,' Says Chandler

Fervent Noses Out Cosmic Bomb

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Pimlico, Md., Oct. 31.—In a thrilling stretch duel with the result in doubt until the final bob, Calumet Farm's Fervent and not Armed headed out William G. Helis' Cosmic Bomb in the eleventh running of the $25,000 winner-take-all Pimlico Special.

Armed, the golden brown bomber of turfdom, was a laboring third three lengths off the gallant fight for first money with Walter M. Jeffords' Loyal Legion fourth and last.

Yes, the midas touch of Warren Wright's stable was there once more. Trainer Jimmy Jones led with ace, Armed, but a deuce, Fervent, took the trick before a crowd of 15,000 wind-chilled but turf-thrilled fans.

Matched Stride for Stride

From the eighth pole to the wire Fervent and Cosmic Bomb, a sturdy pair of 3-year-olds, matched stride for stride.

In the gnal lunges, it was the son of Blenheim II and Hug Again who had the most punch left. It was a "going-away" head margin and the judges did not consult a photo before posting the result.

The Calumet entry paid $2.40.

Armed was the only member of the vest-pocket filed with an excuse.

The handicap champ was locked in close quarters between horses for more than an eighth of a mile through the stretch the first time. However, when he was called upon for a move, he failed to answer Jockey Doug Dodson's urging.

Two Seconds Off Record

Fervent, bidding for the 3-year-old title of the year, was clocked in 1:58 2/5, only two seconds off the track record for the famous mile and three sixteenths held by Riverland. The time was all the more creditable because the track was definitely slow.

Jockey Albert Snider rode Fervent and made no mistakes. He saved the 3-year-old in the stages, timed his move just right and was a helpmate to Fervent if there ever was one in the all-important final drive.

The victory might have locked up four championships for the Calumet Farm this year—to date a $1,329,911 season for the barn.

Fervent gets a strong vote now for the 3-year-old title. Armed could be voted the handicap champion. While Citation probably is the best 2-year-old colt and Bewitched the top 2-year-old filly.

Snider and Fervent went about their business of shocking the turf talent without any early fanfare.

Armed Breaks in Front

Starter Eddie Blind sent the quartet out of the gate in good alignment. Armed broke in front along with Fervent but Snider almost immediately took the 3-year-old under restraint.

Loyal Legion, on the inside, and Cosmic Bomb on the outside, soon joined Armed and the three headed for the clubhouse turn as if they were drawing a chariot. Armed was in the middle with Dodson struggling to get his mount to the front. It was not until going into the turn that this three-Bomb bearing out and shooting way team broke up with Cosmic into the lead.

Approaching the far turn at a time the crowd was expecting a move from Armed, Snider gave Fervent his head and the 3-year-

Pimlico, Md., Oct. 31.—Two jockeys were injured on today's program. Don Padgett suffered a back injury when his mount stumbled and threw him at the start of the eighth race. ## 'We'll Give 'Em 60 Minutes Of Fight,' Hamilton Declares

Cleveland, Oct. 31 (AP).—"We'll give 'em 60 minutes of fighting football," Navy Coach Tom Hamilton declared grimly today as his thrice-beaten Middies arrived here for tomorrow's clash with unbeaten Notre Dame.

Observing a headline which read "Irish Confident," Hamilton snapped "We're confident, too. I'm confident we'll paly a good football game. We lost to a good Penn team last week, but we didn't play our game. I hope we play our game tomorrow."

The Navy squad engaged in a final tuneup in the huge lakefront stadium shortly after arriving this morning. Notre Dame's arrival tonight prevented any practice session.

Misses Pete Williams

The Middies, Hamilton said, have a fine fullback in Bill Hawkins, but really miss their most dangerous runner, Pete Williams, out with a broken ankle.

Williams, with the cast removed, accompanied the squad but will not be in uniform. A small, fast back, he must have his full speed to be effective, Hamilton explained.

Besides Hawkins, Navy has a real ace in Dick Scott, center and captain, but in general the squad does not match the Irish in physical strength, nor in experience.

Simmons May Get Chance

The Irish's outstanding defensive fullback, the injured John Panelli, will be in uniform and ready for use if vitally needed, but the Navy game may give Floyd Simmons his big chance.

Frequently injured, he had been relegated to a third string role until last week, when he cracked the Iowa line for several important first downs after Mike Swistowicz, Panelli's first replacement, had been hurt.

Whether Notre Dame will explode tomorrow depends upon many factors. Coach Frank Leahy has been bringing his squad along slowly and it has been plain that in recent games Leahy was attempting to hold down the score.

Only Leahy, who dipped into his fifth-stringers last week as the Irish trimmed Iowa, 21 to 0, for their fourth straight win, knows how deeply he hopes to substitute tomorrow.

Bill Bennings

At Pimlico.

DEAR FOLKS—Talked to Alan Clarke yesterday about his 2-year-old, Fritz Maisel. He thinks the son of Little Beans has a big future and has named him for two stake races at the Bowie meeting. Apprentice Jack Turner, who fell off Black Swan near the finish of Thursday's eighth race, was back at the track working horses in the morning. However, he will not be allowed to ride again until a check-up. He is said to have become dizzy and fell off. Mrs. C. E. Adams believes there should be an end to her hard luck. Her son, F. D. Adams, suffered a broken arm while riding in a steeplechase. Her husband has been ill with pneumonia, and Refugio, her best jumper, has lost form. The Pimlico band which appears only on Preakness and Pimlico special days has been put away for another year. The flute player, third from last in the sixth row, had a back-pocket bulge that didn't look like a thermos bottle. More power to him. It was that kind of weather. Another one threw one of his rubbers nearing the finish line. Alfred G. Vanderbilt appears to have a strong candidate for the $7500 Heiser Handicap next Wednesday in Yonder, a son of New World and Canfli. Big show for Saturday. See you on the rail.

Terps Meet Powerful W. Virginia

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The Mountaineers of West Virginia are the obstacles confronting the Maryland football team as College Park today and if the Terps could bypass them it would make a homecoming crowd of 15,000 more than somewhat jubilant.

The rugged West Virginians, nosed out by powerful Penn State last week for their only loss in five starts this season, present the toughest foe the Terrapins have been called on to face except Duke, which administered the lone defeat on the Maryland record.

Mountaineers Favorites

Despite optimism by Old Liner rooters, the visitors rule 10-point favorites.

Maryland's cause was done no good yesterday when Coach Jim Tatum learned that his stellar end, George Simler, would be unable to play.

Simler chipped a bone in the 21-19 victory over V. P. I. last week and was withheld from contact work all this week in hopes he may come around. But Trainer Duke Wyre reported there was no chance of the big pass-catching flankman playing. Elmer Wingate of Baltimore, will fill in for Simler.

Otherwise, the Terp regular cast will be in there for the 2 p. m. kickoff. This comprises Halfback Hubie Werner, out since the Richmond game two weeks ago, who is now ready to help Lu Gambino, Vic Turyn, Harry Bonk and Johnny Idzik in the ball-totin' and passing departments.

Sellout Game

The high-powered West Virginia offense, which, like Maryland's, operates from the "T" formation, is powered by field generals Tom Keane and Russ Combs, today's cocaptains.

The game has been a sellout for weeks. To accommodate thousands of alumni who were unable to purchase tickets, four television sets have been installed in Ritchie Coliseum and other places on the campus.

Coach Moore Has Redskin Back Trouble

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

COACH WILBUR MOORE, vice president in charge of Redskin backfield men, is something less than elated with one of his halfbacks.

Coach Moore, as a matter of fact, has threatened the guilty performer throughout a week of practice leading up to tomorrow's return tiff with the Philadelphia Eagles at Griffith Stadium.

"Halfback Wilbur Moore," Coach Moore said yesterday, "was definitely not up to standard last week against the Bears. He looked out of condition and his reactions were slow. He was so worn out, I hear, he spent all day Monday resting up in bed.

"Halfback Moore," quoth Coach Moore, "will be getting the bum's rush to our Wilmington farm if he doesn't show improvement Sunday."

Of course, explained Coach Moore, there are a few extenuating circumstances. The guilty party, now 31 years old, was playing his first game last Sunday since the middle of the 1946 season. He'd had only three days advance notice that he was being put on the active list.

The Redskins' new halfback (he actually joined 'em in 1939) shares Coach Moore's disgust for his play during the team's 56-20 loss to the Bears, but mostly for the "sleeper" play that made it 42-20 in the last quarter.

"McAfee, who caught the scoring pass, was strictly my man," he confesses. "To cover him I'd have had to watch him between plays, I suppose, but he was still my man."

Coach Moore and Halfback Moore also agree on the game of football.

"We like to play football," they chorused yesterday, "and we like to handle football players. What could be sweeter than a player-coach job?"

Hoyas Are Underdogs At Boston

Boston, Oct. 31.—Georgetown University, whose 1947 grid schedule is spotted with one critical game after another, reaches the stand against its most important Jesuit rival at Braves Field tomorrow when the underdog Hoyas face Boston College.

In the fourteenth renewal of a series started in 1919—when B. C. took a 10-9 victory—Georgetown is rated two or three touchdowns under the Eagles. On the outcome of previous meetings, however, anything is liable to happen.

Boston College carries the best record, three won and one lost, into the game Coach Denny Myers likes to win more than any other. Its only defeat was by one point, 14-13, to Louisiana State while it turned back Clemson, Kansas State and Villanova in that order.

Georgetown has lost two of its fiv egames, but with the exception of a 16-0 pasting by St. Louis it has no apologies to make. After a 6-0 loss to powerful Wake Forest, the Hoyas trampled Fordham and N. Y. U. and upset Tulsa University by 12-0.

Through the years the rivalry was highlighted by the 19-18 margin with which B. C. broke the longest winning streak in Georgetown history in 1940, but last year's game had its moments.

That was when the Hilltoppers, scheduled to take a thorough lacing, went into the last four minutes of play leading, and then lost, 20-13, on a pair of touchdowns by Halfback Al Cannava.

This year, unlike 1946, Georgetown ha sno fewer than three top-flight quarterbacks to hurl at the Eagles. Elmer Raba, Babe Baranowski and Johnny Hughes are all ready to operate Coach Jack Hagerty's combination T-formation and spread.

In contrast, B. C. will depend mostly on quarterback Steve Stuka, a 163-pounder who is carrying the load while Ed Clasby recovers from injuries.

Wake Forest, Indians Meet For S. C. Runner-up Berth

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 31.—More than 19,000 fans are expected to pile into Cary Stadium tomorrow to see the Wake Forest and William and Mary football teams continue their scramble for second place in the Southern Conference.

Each team has won three of its four conference games, but the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest were given the slight edge in the betting for two reasons:

1. The accurate passing arm of Tommy Fetzer, who has ranked among the Nation's top five tossers all season.

2. It took the first place Blue Devils of Duke to knock the Demons off the unbeaten list last week, Wake Forest losing that game 13-6.

Confidence in the camp of the William and Mary Indians is attributed to the fact that Jack Cloud is having another big year. The 200-pound sophomore, who was named to the All-Southern team last year, has already notched 46 points this season.

Up forward, William and Mary has a pair of linemen who rank with the best in the Nation. Guard Knox Ramsey and Tackle Ralph Sazio were also All-Southern team members last year. Both are seniors.

In marked contrast to Wake Forest's loss to Duke was W. & M.'s easy rout of Boston University last week. W. & M. backers think that their team will be in better condition for the contest than will Wake Forest after last week's bruising loss to the Blue Devils.

Probable lineups:

Cards Scrap T, Revamp Backs For Newport

Catholic U. grid coach Gene Augusterfer has abandoned the T for the single wing and revamped his backfield line-up for the Cardinals' second home game against Newport News Navy Apprentice school, at 2:30 p. m. today.

Ralph Hubert will take over signal-calling duties, Joe Maiuri and Bucky Ennis will start at the halves and Bill DeYoung will be the fullback.

Former Maryland football coach, Frank Dobson will also use a single-wing for his Navy backfield. Navy has a slight edge on the Cards in weight on the line, but both backfields are light and fast.

The line-ups:

Virginia Faces Spiders Today

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 31.—The Richmond Spiders, rated 25 point underdogs against undefeated Verginia, may be able to fool more than a few people when they face the Cavaliers here tomorrow.

Virginia, unbeaten in five games and considered one of the South's powerhouse teams, will undoubtedly be looking over little Richmond to its game with unbeaten Penn next Saturday.

This is just what Spider Coach Johnny Fenlon is hoping. With his boys "up" for the contest and Virginia resting on its laurels, Fenlon's boys have a chance to pull a terrific upset.

With everything to gain and not much to lose, the Spiders, who showed brief flashes of power while losing to Maryland, would like nothing better than a victory over their old rivals.

It will not be easy however, to stop Grover Jones, Bruce Bailey, George Neff, Ray Brown, Johnny Papit, Billy Pennel and the other talented Cavalier backs who have run roughshod over all opponents thus far.

Richmond's hopes rest on the passing of Joe Laluna and the ball carrying ability of Sugar Ralston and Walt Bolen. Bolen is the boy who ran 87 yards through Maryland for the Spiders' only score.

Fervent Noses Cosmic Bomb;

However, Ovie Scurlock, on Cosmic Bomb wasn't allowing anybody on his rail today so Snider had to bring Fervent out as the field began approaching the stretch. At this point, Armed showed signs of life as Loyal Legion, despite Eddie Arcaro's drive, dropped back.

For a few fleeting moments it appeared that Armed might knock moved together at the turn. But Fervent out of a chance. The two Armed failed to come on as expected. Instead it was Fervent who was going after the fleet Cosmic Bomb.

In the straightaway, Cosmic Bomb was answering Scurlock's every urge as Snider pumped away on Fervent. At the sixteenth pole, Cosmic Bomb seemed to have his rival at bay. However, Snider increased the cadence of his riding to a desperate pitch.

Scurlock then went to the whip—a murderous slashing. Snider shook up Fervent and then hand rode.

It was anybody's race 20 yards from the wire but then Fervent showed his mettle and Cosmic Bomb showed the effects of his front-running effort.

The Calumet's Devil's Red was not to be denied. The punch was there and it was mellow. Fervent used it, the result—victory by a long head.

The victory was the 10th of the year in 18 tries for Fervent and brought his 1947 earnings to $166,600 and his two-year total to $205,910.

O'Conor Says He'll Go to Court

warning that it was against the commissioner's interpretation of the rule, O'Connor said. "I deliberately wanted to bring this showdown."

During the last World Series, O'Connor said, he had offered Chandler a compromise, however. The White Sox would give up their rights to Zoeterman if Chandler would rescind the fine, he said. "Mr. Chandler walked out of the meeting," he added.

His decision to bring the issue into court next week, before the next council meeting on November 6, O'Connor said, was because of his desire to maintain the American League's representation on the executive council.

"Will Open the 1948 Season"

A restraining order, O'Connor pointed out, would render Chandler's action against him and the club, inoperative and restore him to the council. He admitted that temporarily the American League is only a seven-club league, with the White Sox inoperative but added, "I think we'll open the 1948 season."

The American League's decision not to involve itself in O'Connor's revolt against Chandler was regarded as a victory for the Commissioner.

O'Connor's presence at the meeting today was no defiance on the league's part following Chandler's suspension order against him. League President Harridge consulted the Commissioner before inviting O'Connor to attend the meeting and was told, "that's up to you." He did not forbid it.

Harridge declared that the White Sox were the only club in the league to take exception to Chandler's interpretation of the ruling against signing high school boys.

Acknowledged His Authority

"When the Commissioner in his bulletins announced the rule applied to boys in both federation and non-federation schools, we acknowledged his authority by submitting to it, you might say," Harridge said.

O'Connor displayed a high confidence in the outcome of his court battle with Chandler.

"I am sure I will be upheld in challenging the authority of the Commissioner to enforce a rule that is not contained in any agreement we made," he said.

"If Chandler wanted to include private schools as well as federation schools in the group to which the order applied, he should have gotten authority by league action, not by usurping our power to draw up the rules," said O'Connor.

Tuck Asks Road Fund Protection

Lexington, Va., Oct. 31 (AP).—Gov. William M. Tuck and United States Senator A. Willis Robertson took a strong stand against diversion of highway funds in Virginia as they addressed the Virginia Highway Conference meeting at Virginia Military Institute today.

"The Virginia people have been far-sighted enough in the past—and I hope they continue to be so in the future—never to divert any highway funds," Governor Tuck told 600 city, county and State officials gathered at the initial session of what will probably become an annual Old Dominion Road School.

Introducing the Governor, Senator Robertson declared, "I am glad that there is no current effort to divert any part of our highway revenues."

Cites Good Roads Need

"Our job," the Senator added, "although well done up to this point, is not completed. We cannot have good schools, good church attendance, or farms, without good roads."

The Governor praised the pay-as-you-go plan under which all Virginia highways are paid for as they are constructed.

United States Public Roads Commissioner Thomas H. MacDonald told the group that the highway construction program currently being carreid out under the Federal Aid Act of 1944, "gives a great promise for the future."

Saying that the picture is considerably brighter than a year ago, MacDonald stated:

"If we maintain this planned program in Virginia for 10 years we can have a system of highways adequate to take care of the needs of the State."

Representative Harrison Heard

Senator Harry F. Byrd, who was also scheduled to address the conference, was unable to appear, but Representative Burr P. Harrison, of the Seventh Congressional District, spoke briefly in his stead.

Other speakers at the opening day session of the two-day conference included Highway Commissioner James A. Anderson and Ben H. Petty, professor of engineering at Purdue University.

Maj. Gen. R. J. Marshall, superintendent of Virginia Military Institute, opened the session with an address welcoming the delegates.

Revenue Officials Recommend Change From 10c Exemption

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 31 (AP).—A new level for Maryland's 2 per cent sales tax, whereby buyers would pay the tax at 15 cents instead of 10, became a possibility today.

The State Board of Revenue Estimates made a recommendation for a shift in the exemption level, at the same time opening a wide field of indirect taxation for the city of Baltimore, which would allow a municiual sales tax if the city wants it.

There appeared little likelihood thecity would seek to balance its budget by a sales levy, since Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro jr., has expressed opposition to such action.

Governor Lane, disclosing the board's recommendation, said it also was proposed that the Board of Public Works be given authority to revise exemptions if and when conditions require

State Comptroller James J. Lacy estimated the 15-cent level would cut income $1,500,000 a year.

In a statement after a conference to put the administration's program in shape for the special session of the legislature called for November 5, Lane listed the tax fields which the city would not be allowed to enter.

He announced that an increase from $5 to $10 a day maximum would be proposed to pay hospitals for care of the indigent sick.

Other items in the administration's program to be presented to the legislature are amendments to the roads program, and a $2,000,000 legislative office building.

The governor said the Baltimore tax bill was being drafted and would be handed to the legislative council Monday.

Nothing was said after the day's deliberations on the granting to counties the same taxing powers as sought in the Baltimore City bill.

Baltimore County officials have disclosed, however, that they will have a bill of their own, and it is likely Montgomery County authorities will do likewise.

Intrastate Rate Boost Granted Railroads in Va.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 31 (AP).—The State Corporation Commission today granted an application of a number of railroads operating in Virginia permitting intrastate increases in basic coach, sleeping and parlor car fares.

The action brings these fares in line with those granted interstate traffic early in October by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The increases raise Pullman fares intrastate from 3.3 to 3.5 cents per mile and coach fares from 2.2 to 2.5 cents per mile.

Railroads which had asked for the increase in both types of fares included Atlantic Coast Line, Carolina, Clinchfield and Ohio, Danville and Western, Norfolk Southern, Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac, and the Southern.

Two other lines, Louisville and Nashville, and Seaboard Airline, did not request the coach fare increase. The new rates have to be published at least 10 days before they become effective.

Avoid National, Racial Bias, Dr. Carr Urges Md. Teachers

Baltimore, Oct. 31 (AP).—Dr. William G. Carr, associate secretary of the National Education Association, today urged Maryland teachers to "avoid exhibition of national and racial prejudice."

Dr. Carr, in a speech before 5000 at the second session of the eightieth convention of the Maryland State Teachers Association, added:

"It isn't easy to avoid passing on to pupils in subtle ways an oversimplified and inacurate estimate of people."

He said "no nation has a monopoly on the good traits of our common human nature."

Outlining the second point of a program for "waging the peace," Dr. Carr said that "domestic and international aspects should be taught together."

He said "the time is past when we can consider domestic policy as separate fro mforeign policy."

Saying "I do not mean to teach a blind and implicit faith in the United Nations," Dr. Carr stated teachers should "teach about its accomplishments as well as its shortcomings."

CUSTODY BATTLE—Mrs. Clare Borin (right), screaming "I want my baby," is restrained by a deputy as she tries to take her daughter, Bonnie Joy, 7, from her estranged husband, Nathan, holding the tearful child. The "battling Borins," who have made about 125 court appearances in 14 years of marital strife, had this fracas outside the chambers of Judge Julius H. Miner, in Chicago municipal courthouse. Bailiffs broke up the melee and Mrs. Borin was awarded temporary custody of the child while both parents consider the judge's proposal that she be placed in a home where both could visit her. Bonnie shrieked preference for her father repeatedly during scuffle

Western Union Actions Hit In Va. Case

By The Associated Press

The Federal Communications Commission said yesterday that Western Union Telegraph Co. had made "incorrect and misleading" statements in an application for abandonment of local service at Charlottesville, Va., and ordered the company to "promptly review" all its pending applications for service changes.

An investigation into Western Union's proposal to close its Charlottesville office near the University of Virginia campus, the commission said, showed that Western Union made an application "which was incorrect and misleading in its statement of material facts."

"This is not the first time errors in material facts have been discovered in sworn applications by Western Union for authority to curtail service," the commission said in a formal order.

"As Western Union is well aware, substantial discrepancies have been discovered in othe rapplications," the commission stated.

History of Proceeding

The commission gave this history of the Charlottesville proceeding:

Western Union applied to close the Charlottesville branch in December, 1946.

Following local protests, FCC sent investigators. They found the branch office had been closed since June 27, when the university closed. The commission said:

"The Western Union manager at Charlottesville arranged for the opening of the office on the afternoon of August 22, after learning of the presence of the investigators in Charlottesville."

The commission thereupon cited Western Union for closing an office without authority, and said the matter would be referred to the Justice Department for "punitive action" unless the matter could be explained.

Closed for Vacation

Western Union representatives came to an October hearing with the explanation that the university branch had always closed up during the summer vacation.

"This fact was in no way indicated or suggested in the formal application to close this office," the commission said.

"On the contrary, the formal application indicated that a normal amount of traffic is handled through th ebranch in the months of July and August."

"The commission cannot tolerate the continuance of errors in material facts in these Western Union applications."

U. S. Lists Price Aids On Tobacco

By The Associated Press

The Agriculture Department announced yesterday grower price support programs for 1947 crop Burley, Maryland, cigar filler, cigar binder, fire-cured and dark air-cured tobaccos.

These tobaccos will be supported by Government loans to growers.

Average loan rates on each type, except fire-cured and dark air-cured, is fixed by law at 90 per cent of the parity price at the beginning of each marketing year.

Average loan rates on fire-cured and dark air-cured tobaccos are fixed at 75 per cent and 56 2/3 per cent, respectively, of the Burley rate.

Dark air-cured (types 35 and 36)—26.9 and 22.4 cents.

Virginia sun-cured—26.9 and 22.4 cents.

Cigar filler (type 41 only)—20.1 and 16.6 cents.

Cigar filler and binder—28.7 and 23.8 cents.

As in the past, loans will be made through grower-cooperatives using normal marketing channels.

The department said loan rates, by various grades of types, will be announced later.

The department has operated tobacco loan and purchase programs for price-support purposes each year since 1937.

Montgomery Official Admits Morgan Blast

Authorship of a Montgomery County government press release criticizing Civil Service Commissioner Jo V. Morgan was frankly admitted yesterday by Supervisor Irving G. McNayr.

The admission was made after Morgan had taken legal action to force testimony from McNayer and his secretary, Mrs. Eleanor Lanigan, on who wrote the statement.

In the release, Morgan had been accused of "dilatory service." It was given to reporters October 1, following action by the county commissioners slashing Morgan's $4800 salary to $1200 per year.

Subpena for a hearing next Wednesday to give testimony on who wrote the statement, McNayr expressed "surprise" at the action and admitted freely he wrote it.

Possible court action by Morgan was seen as a result of his move to force the hand of the statement's author. Morgan, however, declined to comment on the probability of such action.

Advised of McNayr's admission he wrote the statement, Morgan's attorney, James R. Miller, said he would nevertheless proceed with the scheduled hearing on the subject for the record.

Meade Favors Some Kind of Price Control

Baltimore, Oct. 31 (AP).—Representative Meade (D., Md.) said today while he was "opposed to the OPA because in my opinion it was un-American in principle, I am convinced . . . that there is need for some kind of price control on food."

The Congressman declared in a radio speech that he had reached this conclusion after attending the recent living-cost hearings in Baltimore and after conversation with constituents.

The hearings by a congressional committee investigating prices were "particularly illuminating," Meade said, and presented "the old story of passing the buck all along the line.

"Everyone agreed that prices were completely out of reason but each one pleaded that he was not guilty but it was all the other fellow's fault."

He predicted that unless the forthcoming session of Congress enacts food price control of some kind, "many will starve and countless numbers of young American children wil be suffering the effects of malnutrition and consequent disease."

Domestic economic problems allied with the question of European relief confront the approaching session of Congress and "in my opinion (it) will be the most important session ever held," Meade said.

Regarding the European aid program, the lawmaker said he was "completely in favor of giving Europe whatever assistance we can."

However, he proposed that "only those countries who will go all out in an effort to help themselves," and those nations who do not "embrace communism" should be beneficiaries of a United States aid program.

Smoke Hearing Set

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 31 (AP).—The mayor and council announced today it will meet next week to enact a smoke control ordinance for Hagerstown.

Alibi Brings Lottery Arrest

Testimony of a defendant in a Prince Georges County robbery case, who contended he was playing the numbers at the time of the robbery, led yesterday to the arrest of a 42-year-old gas station atendant on a lottery charge.

John Burk, of the National Trailer Camp, just north of College Park, was arrested in a College Park filling station about an hour after Calvin Lee of Lakeland, Md., the defendant in the robbery case, identified Burk as the man with whom he was playing the numbers. He was formally charged operating a lottery.

Lee, accused of robbing Char. L. Brown of Lakeland, of $80 on September 6, explained his presence in the vicinity of the robbery by saying he had gone there frequently to place numbers bets.

Detective Sergt. Wilson Purdy, who arrested Burk, said he caught the man in the act of writing numbers when he entered the filling station. A quantity of numbers slips was confiscated.

100 Parties Keep Pranks, Destruction At Minimum

Police Enjoy Dull Halloween as Boys And Girls Find Fun In Supervised Play

Community organizations joined forces last night to make the eve of All Saints' Day as safe for adult life and property as antifireworks' laws have made July 4 safe and sane.

Aan a good time was reported by all.

The adult modus operandi was to stage as many and as varied parties as most neighbarhoods could absorb, please and tire the youngsters with supervised play, and get them back to bed with a minimum of damage to outdoor furniture.

More than 100 such activities were staged yesterday and last night, mostly under the supervision of the District Recreation Department.

The dullest time,it appeared, was experienced by police, and they weren't complaining. Halloween to police heretofore has been one one of the runningest nights of the year.

The Recreation Department, operating through neighborhood groups, sponsored some 75 keepbusy parties, mostly at its recreation centers. Boys' clubs and civic and social groups took up much of the slack not reached by District social workers.

In Arlington, Va., Wilson blvd. from Clarendon circle to N. Highland st., was roped off for street dancing from 6:30 p. m. till midnight for folks of the Clarendon area. Fairlington, North and South, offered outdoor bonfire parties and indoor movies to its youngsters.

The Optimist Club of Alexandria, Va., offered treats without tricks to all youngsters 15 years of age or under, featuring hot dogs, potato chips, doughnuts, ice cream, movies and contest entertainments.

Bethesda, Md., through four civic clubs, sponsored a series of community parties of safe Halloween motif, with prizes for winners of costume contests. The local Chamber of Commerce joined in sponsoring the affairs.

Police Called to Check Dummy Stuck With Knife

Two telephone installers called police at 6:45 p. m. yesterday to investigate the stabbing of a man in a basement apartment, at 1344 Monroe st. nw.

They reported finding the man's form by flashlight in the darkened apartment of Mrs. Frieda Bennett, 22, a Hot Shoppe waitress on duty at the time. The handle of a knife protruded from its back as it lay prone on the floor.

Police found the object to be a dummy constructed mainly from a red bedspread. The pranksters, they said, had left the room in a shambles and rigged up the dummy for the 2 a. m. return of Mrs. Bennett.

Hawkins Dies In Chair for Killing Clerk

Holdup Man Goes Steadily to End Boasting of Night Without Sedatives

Alfred L. Hawkins, 23-year-old holdup slayer, paid for his crime in the electric chair at District Jail yesterday morning.

The last appearance of the convicted slayer of a Safeway grocery clerk was in sharp contrast to his flashy prosperity on May 18, 1946, when he and an accomplice were arrested at 500 12th st. se. as "suspicious characters." Then he was expensively clothed, and wore a $400 diamond ring and $200 wrist watch. Yesterday drab jail garb draped his gaunt frame.

Unsmiling, but signifying pride at being able to sleep without sedatives on his final night of living, Hawkins ground out a half-smoked cigarette, spat away a wad of chewing gum, and sat down in the lethal chair. He held out his arms steadily for fastening.

At 10:04 a. m. the current was turned on. It surged through his body for two minutes. Five minutes later Hawkins was declared officially dead by the jail physician, Dr. Martin L. Cannon.

Hawkins, with Lawrence I. Prout, 20, of 4912 Nash st. ne., had confessed to the shooting of grocery clerk on April 13, 1946, to steal $794 from the store safe. In the confusion, which he later repudiated, Hawkins said he fired the fatal shot.

Prout, who also had been sentenced to die in the electric chair, had his sentence commuted to life imprisonment by President Truman.

The slayer of 1817 2d st. nw. was visited Thursday by his wife, Beatrice. Thursday night he told his jailer he would "go like a man." For his final breakfast, he request edfruit juice, cereal, coffee, butter and sugar.

He ate the breakfast calmly, turning aside only the dry cereal and downing the milk for it from its bowl. He boasted then that he had been able to sleep from 2 a. m. until awakened at 6 a. m.

As he walked to the chair, he passed Donald Clemmer, director of the District department of corrections.

"Goodby, Mr. Clemmer," he said.

"Good luck, son," Clemmer answered.

Maher Appointed To Investigator Job

Asst. U. S. Attorney First to Be Named To $8100 Position As Trouble Shooter

Daniel B. Maher, Assistant United States Attorney since 1943, yesterday was given an $8179-a-year job to handle "hot potatoes" for the District Commissioners.

News of the 41-year-old attorney's resignation from the United States Attorney's Office and his acceptance of the newly created post with the District came simultaneously.

A long-time friend of Police Chief Robert J. Barrett, Maher will handle investigations ordered by the Commissioners and conduct them independently of Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West.

His investigation reports will be submitted to the Commissioners through West and with West's recommendations attached.

West said Maher's duties will be primarily to make investigations of all questions affecting District personnel, such as matters to be brought before police and fire trial board hearings.

The corporation counsel, pointing out that he now has three assistants working on investigation of Fire Chief Clement B. Murphy's administration, said Maher will handle such cases alone.

Purpose of Maher's appointment, West indicated, is to remove from the corporation counsel's office work which is not devoted to legal matters entirely.

United States District Attorney George Morris Fay accepted Maher's resignation "with deep regret. I am sure," he said, "the attorney general will regret it as deeply as I do."

Maher, who lives at 2925 Pennsylvania ave. se., with his wife and two children, has been in charge of civil litigation and defense of Government officials in suits arising from their official acts. He was coprosecutor and carried through the grand jury Joshua Medley murder charge. Medley died in the electrict chair for the slaying of Nancy Boyer last year.

Born in Kearny, N. J., he attended Fordham University here in 1935 and was admitted to the District bar the same year. He worked for New Jersey Newspapers before coming to Washington in 1929, and was with The Washington Post from 1929 to 1936, covering police courts, the Capitol and the White House.

Currently he is also a professor of law at the Columbia University Cchool of Accountancy.

Beaten With Pipe

Thug Breaks Girl's Arm, Steals Purse

The Washington Post

VIOLET BROWN

Nurses broken arm

A thug armed with a 31-inch iron pipe broke the arm of a Government girl in downtown Washington early yesterday.

The bandit, after beating his victim with the pipe, escaped with her purse containing $100.

The victim is Miss Violet M. Brown, 27, of 1900 F st. nw.

She told police she had volunteered for an assignment Thursday night in the International and Functional Intelligence Division of the State Department, where she is employed.

Struck Down Near Home

When her work was completed, she said, she started walking home. At around 1:05 a. m., while in the 1800 block of F st. nw., one block from her apartment, her assailant came upon her and struck without warning.

George W. Apperson, a Capital Transit Co. motorman, witnessed the robbery from his halted streetcar. He chased the bandit, but was outdistanced.

The thug was described as a Negro, five feet eight inches, 160 pounds, wearing a dark coat or sweater and a pork-pie hat.

Jewelry, Cash Taken

Thieves entered the house of Benjamin Bobb, 1118 G st. se., during the night and stole approximately $2000 in jewelry and $475 in cash.

Bobb, a liquor dealer, said $175 of the money belonged to the Southeast Congregation. He said that his wife, treasurer for the ladies auxiliary, had collected the cash as proceeds of a card party.

Would-be safecrackers were foiled in an attempt to break into the safe of the Rosslyn Steel Co., 3031 K st. nw. They left their tools near the safe. Entrance was gained by breaking the window in a door, and jimmying the lock.

More than $300 in gold and platinum was stolen from the Ring Dental Laboratory, 1801 I st. nw. The thief broke a transom window, leaving blood in the laboratory when he apparently cut his hand.

The window of a jewelry store at 222 H st. nw., was smashed and rings, watches, and a table radio valued at $513 were taken.

Va. Project Denied Roads To Parkway

NCPPC Calls Plan Detrimental to Mt. Vernon Highway

A request for access roads to the Mount Vernon Memorial Parkway from a housing development near Alexandria was denied yesterday by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The Commission ruled such roads would turn the parkway into an ordinary traffic route. The plea was made by the builders of the 1200-unit Bellehaven development, who wished to construct the roads as entrances to the project.

Maj. Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, 3d, NCPPC chairman, said that to grant the application would be to destroy the purpose of the parkway. The road was built, he explained, as an express highway from Washington to George Washington's home.

Alternative Suggested

In lieu of direct access routes into the parkway, the commission suggested construction of county roads, perhaps parallel with the scenic drive. Building of the development, one of the largest in the metropolitan area, already has begun.

NCPPC also decided at its meeting to meet December 12 with Prince Georges (Md.) planning and government officials to discuss "problems of mutual interest." A similar meeting was held Thursday with Arlington and Alexandria officials, and resulted in formation of joint committees on zoning policies and on water resources and sewage disposal.

Grant disclosed, however, that the talks with Prince Georges representatives also would concern a proposal in that county for construction of huge "residential planned communities." The idea, propounded by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, is part of a revised zoning ordinance pending before the county commissioners, sitting as a district council.

Under the plan, Grant said certain areas within natural boundaries would be set aside for development along specific lines. They would include stores, homes, apartments and schools. The pattern of development would be assured by covenants, so that the community idea would not be lost in the whims of private builders.

Other Actions by Board

The commission took under advisement a request from the United States Treasury for selection of a site on which to build a fuel storage plant.

Under authority of the Urban Redevelopment Act of 1946, NCPPC set aside $10,600 for the Census Bureau to determine, through a sample survey of Washington, the average highest income of the 20 per cent who are in the city's lowest income brackets. The study, to begin next spring, will determine which families may live in public housing.

The planning body threw out an earlier plan to build an express parkway through Anacostia Park east of the Aanoctsia River and south of the junction with the proposed Baltimore parkway. The action was taken, Grant said, because plans for the Kenilworth Freeway made the project unnecessary. In its place, he said, the park road will be extended north. About $500,000 will be saved by the move, he estimated.

Blows Not Evident

Mrs. Zlotnick Loses Suit For Divorce

A court-imposed truce yesterday silenced the Zlotnick's legal marital battles.

Furrier Sidney Zlotnick, fighting his wife's divorce action, testified during the five-day trial that she pummelled him, broke his glasses, pulled his ear and kicked him out of bed.

If Zlotnick was cruel to his wife, it didn't show, Associate Justice F. Dickinson Letts ruled in District Court as he dismissed the case. He also dismissed Zlotnick's counterclaim seeking to recover $5000 he had deposited in a join bank account. He charged she withdrew the money and put it in her savings account.

The wrangle will be renewed if Zlotnick presses his suit against the tall, attractive former ballet dancer for divorce on grounds of desertion.

She charged him with being penurious to the point where she occasionally found herself without lunch money, but she wanted a divorce so badly, she said, that she'd even forego allmony.

Mrs. Zlotnick was represented by Attorney Roger Robb; her husband by Attorney Jean Boardman.

Arlington Man Accidentally Shot by Wife

A 53-year-old Arlington man was accidentally shot and critically wounded early yesterday by his wife as he left his bed to investigate prowlers outside the house.

Middleton

The victim was William Middleton, now listed in "critical" condition at Arlington hospital following the accident at 3 a. m. yesterday at his home, 1906 N. Roosevelt st., Arlington.

Middleton is assistant director of the division of Japanese beetle control for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and a veteran of 35 years in the department.

According to his wife, Mrs. Louise Middleton, 50, she halfawoke, about 3 a. m., saw her husband leave his bed, and dimly heard him say somebody was tampering with his car. "I heard him say something about 'Holloween'," she related.

Reaching under her pillow, Mrs. Middleton told police, she grasped a loaded .22-caliber pistol she kept in the house for protection when her husband is away.

Then, police say, the gun was accidentally discharged, the bullet striking Middleton in the stomach.

His wife said "everything went blank" after she reached for the pistol, that she did not recall the accidental discharge of the weapon, and that she fainted.

Arlington Detective Chief Capt. Hugh Jones said the shooting was accidental.

Sorority Victim

$5000 Fraud, Gaming Loss Confessed

A repentant bookkeeper, arraigned on a $95 bad check charge here, yesterday confessed taking up to $5000 in funds of a Maryland University sorority and gambling it away since last July.

James Hilliard Kinsey, 48, of 1356 Otis pl. nw., blurted out his troubles before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage. Though not officially charged in the matter, he has been under surveillance for it, the FBI said.

Kinsey, short, neatly dressed and scholarly in appearance, said he lost most of the $5000 "on the horses and by gambling on the dice at Jimmy LaFontaine's," widely known gambling house just over the District line.

"There is no point in fighting this thing now. I'll admit I was a fool," he declared, dejectedly.

Commissioner Turnage, declining to accept the defendant's guilty plea on the bad-check charge, bound him over under $1500 bail for action of the grand jury.

Kinsey told the commissioner he is a veteran of both World Wars and "had barely been able to eke out a living" on total-disability pay from his war service. He said he was drafted in the past war and given a medical discharge after seven months at Camp Pickett.

He did not go into detail on how he obtained the sorority funds, but said he took it in his capacity as bookkeeper for the Alpha Omicron Pi chapter at Maryland University, from its account in the Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co. of Hyattsville, Md.

A sorority chapter officer confirmed the "loss of some funds," but said the organization did not want to publicize the matter.

Kinsey also said that in 1937 he served six months in Maryland State Penitentiary on nine counts of passing bad checks.

He was arrested Thursday by FBI agents on a charge of passing a bad check for $95 in interstate commerce. Investigators said the check, in his own name, was in payment of a liquor bill. Complainant was the Irving Liquor Store, 1400 Irving st. nw.

Board Clears Policeman Of Violence

The Police Trial Board yesterday found Pvt. James D. Williams of No. 2 Precinct not guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer and of maltreating and using unnecessary violence toward a prisoner, following a five-hour hearing.

Board members Inspector Oscar J. Letterman, Capt. Benjamin F. Kuehling and Assistant Corporation Sounsel Stanley De Neal heard Williams deny all charges of James L. Young, 34, 605 P st. nw., the complainant.

Young testified that the policeman, who has been on the force since December 17, 1941, had struck him and had cursed while placing him under arrest at about 6 p. m. on August 20. This occurred on 7th st. between P and Q sts. nw., he said, after he had met his twin brother, Charlie Young.

James Young testified that Williams, apparently mistaking him for his brother when he saw him on P st., came up to him, swore, and said, "Didn't I tell you to get off the corner?"

The complainant declared he protested and was taken up the street by Williams, who held him by the belt. About half way up the block, he continued, he told the policeman he would take him "before the judge," whereupon Williams swore again, and struck him on the left eye, knocking him into a show window, he testified. He was locked up on a disorderly conduct charge and put up $5 collateral. He forfeited collateral and filed the complaint against the officer on September 29, more than a month after the arrest.

Assistant Corporation Counsel William S. Cheatham, prosecutor, produced four witnesses, including Charlie Young, who testified they saw Williams strike Young, but they disagreed on details. None had heard any of the conversation between the complainant and the policeman, they said. All admitted they had been arrested on drinking or disorderly conduct charges.

Williams declared Young swore at him, so he took him by the arm to arrest him. Young tried to get away, he testified, so he tripped him. He neither cursed, nor struck Young, he declared. He charged Young with disorderly conduct, he testified, because he had cursed.

Williams was represented by Attorney Charles E. Ford.

150 Neighbors Sign Petition Protesting Night Club Noise

More than 150 persons residing near the Club Cairo signed a petition yesterday protesting noises emanating from the club.

A hearing has been called for 11 a. m. today in the Corporation's Counsel's office at Municipal Court to determine whether the management of the club should be prosecuted.

Samuel Schanker, operator of the club, said that he plans to soundproof its walls.

"Of course," he said, "I can't be held responsible if people leaving the club make noises outside. But I'll do everything in my power to keep the noise down."

The petition signers were mainly residents of the 1600 block of 16th st. nw. The Club Cairo is at 1615 Q st. nw.

Captain George R. Wallrodt of the Third Police Precinct said he had sent a policeman to the residents to determine the validity of their complaint. He said that he then suggested that the corporation counsel consider the case.

Robert H. Boucher, 1610 16th st. nw., who helped circulate the petition, said he had found it impossible to sleep without taking sedatives because of the noise from the club.

He said:

"Their present entertainer, Eleanor Powell, is the quietest of the lot. They used to have orchestras that would throw their instruments and trunks around when they were leaving to go home after the place closes at 2 a. m.

Boucher complained of the singing, the orchestras, the applause, and also of "the nightowls" who make noise on the street as they leave the club.

Area News in Brief

Daniel, McKinley High School Head, Retires

The end of 46 years as an educator brought Frank C. Daniel, retiring principal of McKinley High School, some strange gifts yesterday.

They included a model airplane, a mouth organ, a set of water wings and a walkie-talkie. Student organizations at McKinley presented the gifts at an assembly on "Pop" Daniels' final day in school. The student body as a whole gave him the latest model FM radio.

Among other gifts was a huge cake topped with 46 candles, baked and presented by the home economics and club, and a portrait of Daniel painted by Mrs. Eugenie De Lan Saugstad, who taught art at the school before her retirement four years ago.

Daniel, who reached the retirement age of 70 on October 15, was appointed a teacher in the public schools in 1901. Ten years later he was named principal of McKinley.

Substandard Housing Dates Are Extended

Persons living in attic or basement rooms which do not meet Health Department requirements will have to find new homes during the next six months.

Temporary wartime regulations permitting occupancy of substandard attic and basement accommodations were extended to April 30, 1948, by the Commissioners yesterday.

The lenient rules were approved for a year on October 31, 1946, in view of the "acute" postwar housing shortage here. They permit use of attic and basement rooms which don't measure up to normal requirements for living space, ceiling height or window space.

Although the number of such rooms has declined to less than 450, health inspectors and housing officials recommended the six-month extension to give tenants "ample opportunity to seek other quarters."

According to the Veterans' Housing Center, an "abundance" of "sleeping rooms" are now available in the District, the Commissioners said.

At the same time yesterday, Health Officer George C. Ruhland revealed that the number of rooming houses here has dropped to 1297, approximately 5 per cent below the wartime peak.

William H. Cary, jr., director of the Bureau of Public Health Engineering, said in his report to the health officer that the drop was due to the exodlus of wartime employes and servicemen from the District.

After Lean Year

Apple Men Promised Big '48 Va. Crop

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 31 (AP).—With harvest of Virginia's light 1947 apple crop about completed, growers were advised today to prepare for a heavy crop next year.

Horticulturist A. H. Teske of the Agriculture Extension Service, said that the crop this year will amount to about one third of the 1946 harvest, but that conditions have been favorable for fruit bud formation which, if normal weather prevails, should mean a heavy crop in 1948.

Teske said a light crop year followed by one of heavy harvest always brings serious production, havesting and marketing problems. He pointed out that Virginia's growers in recent years have lost many apple custoimers, partly because they have not produced the kind of fruit preferred.

To insure markets for the expected heavy crop next year, he recommended more careful consideration of the orchard fertilizer program.

2 Father-Son Teams Achieve High Corn Mark

Prince George, Va., Oct. 31 (AP).—Remarkable corn yields of 119 and 89 bushels per acre were achieved by two father-and-son teams in the recent harvest of Virginia Agricultural Extension Service demonstration plots in Prince Georges County, it was reported here today.

County Agent H. A. Noblin said Andrew Moncol of Route 2, Prince George, and his son, Edward P. Moncol, produced corn at the rate of 119.5 bushels per acre on a 1.2-acre plot in a demonstration of fertilization procedure developed by Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station.

In a similar demonstration, Joseph Chudaba of Route 1, Prince George, and his son, Joseph, jr., realized 89.6 bushels per acre, Noblin reported.

The yields were computed on a uniform basis of 15.5 per cent moisture content. The expected State average yield this year is about 32 bushels per acre.

Sunday Dinner Menu Tips

Roast lamb is suggested for Sunday dinner in the conservative menu suggested by Citizens Food Committee. With it goes a stuffing of vegetables, to spare bread; a salad of diced canned pineapple and sliced raw cranberries tossed with broken-up lettuce leaves and your favorite salad dressing. And for a Sunday dessert, serve chocolate or vanilla ice cream.

Roast Shoulder of Lamb With Vegetable Stuffing

1 medium onion, diced
½ cup celery, chopped
3 tablespoons green pepper, chopped
¾ cup raw carrots, grated
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1¼ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon thyme
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ cup melted fat
4 pounds shoulder of lamb (cut with "pocket for stuffing").

Combine first 10 ingredients. Fill pocket of meat with stuffing. Fasten together with skewers or tie securely with cord. Brush with additional fat. Season with 2 tablespoons additional salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Roast in moderate oven (350 degrees), allowing 45 minutes per pound. Serves six to eight, with leftovers.

Ask Anne — Your Questions on Homemaking

"Where can I procure a book giving instructions on reupholstering and refinishing furniture? T. J. H.

"The Complete Home Encyclopedia," by Dorothy Pace (published by Caxton House), has a chapter on refinishing furniture and another on reupholstering. I think you'll find it very helpful. It can be obtained in book stores and at some of the public libraries.

What can I use to remove rust spots from white fabric gloves? —M. P.

Sprinkle salt on the rust spots, squeeze on lemon juice, and spread in the sun to dry. Add more lemon juice if stain still shows. Rinse well.

What can be used to clean very soiled upholstery on a platform rocker? APPRECIATIVE READER.

Unless the upholstery has a deep pile or seems likely to fade, you can shampoo it satisfactorily with one of the commercial products sold for this purpose. There are also good upholstery dry cleaners on the market.

Or, if you want to make an upholstery shampoo at home, here are directions for an effective one: Dissolve ½ cup mild soap (soap ends can be used for this) in 1 quart boiling water. Cool until jellied. Beat the jelly to a stiff lather with a rotary egg beater. Be sure no liquid is left. Scrub the lather over a small area of the upholstery with a soft brush, using a circular motion. When lather looks soiled, scrape off with a spatula. Remove the last traces with clean cheesecloth, wrung out of clear lukewarm water until barely damp. Repeat, starting within the cleaned area. Change rinse water and cloth as soon as soiled.

Can you tell me how to remove the shine from a dinette set of varnished stained mahogany? H. T. F.

One way to remove the harsh, shiny appearance of varnished surfaces is to rub with a mixture of powdered pumice stone and raw linseed oil. Sanding lightly with fine sandpaper, wrapped around a wooden block, will also soften the appearance of the finish, as will going over it with very fine steel wool.

The water in the town where I live seems to keep soap from sudsing. What is a good water softener which is not harmful to baby's clothes, and how should it be used? J. F.

Borax is a mild water softener. It's more expensive to use and less effective than some others, but safer for washing woolens, silks and all delicate fabrics. It is satisfactory if water is only slightly hard. Use two or more tablespoons (level) to 1 gallon of water. It is more effective when added to water before soap is put in. When scum has formed, remove it and add the soap. This is called a "pretreat."

Washing soda or sal soda is a strong water softener, but is not harmful to cotton and linen fabrics if properly used. It is harmful to wool and silk. It must be completely dissolved, as undissolved particles destroy textile fabrics. To be most effective, it should be used like borax, as a "pretreat." Use the following proportions to each ten gallons of water: For fairly soft water, 1 to 2 level tablespoons; moderately hard, 3 to 4 tablespoons; very hard, 5 to 7 tablespoons.

Trisodium phosphate acts more quickly than washing soda and is excellent for use with white cottons and linens. It can also be used for silks, woolens, and rayons in mild solution. It will not attack colors that are guaranteed fast if the correct amount is used. "Pretreat" is also the best way to use trisodium phosphate. Use the following amounts for each 10 gallons of water: Fairly soft water, 1 level tablespoon; moderately hard, 1 to 2 level tablespoons; very hard, 3 to 4 level tablespoons.

There are also commercial water softeners or "normalizers" sold under various trade names that give very satisfactory results.

What is the best way to brighten tarnished gold braid on a uniform? R. B. D.

One way is to brush the braid with a fairly stiff brush, then rub powdered alum well into it. Let alum remain for an hour or two, then brush out.

We have a lovely kitchen table and four chairs with chrome steel legs. When the chrome became rusty and rather bad looking some time ago a paint store suggested that my father use a chrome paint on them, which he did. It imparted a dull finish which we dislike very much. We contacted several plating companies here, but to have them restore the finish would cost almost as much as we paid for the set. Is there anything you can suggest to restore the original luster? M. N. L.

I'm afraid replating is the only way you'll be able to restore the original appearance of the metal. Certain types of aluminum paint might give you a shinier finish than you have now, however, or it might be more satisfactory to enamel the furniture in a color. When chrome-plated furniture is new, the surface can be preserved and rust prevented by applying a coat of clear lacquer.

Here's Your Chance to Get a New Car

How would you like a new car, at list price, with prompt delivery after January 1?

It has electrically operated windows, a built-in desk, vanity and cocktail bar, a light on the dashboard to signal that you're down to two gallons of gas, and chrome-plated cylinders which eliminate the necessity of removing carbon.

These cars are guaranteed to do between 90 and 100 miles per hour without vibration, and if you don't rush right down and order one tomorrow I'll be greatly surprised.

They're the new Rolls-Royces—with prices starting at $18,450. If you've no taste for roughing it, more expensive models are available. They'll be on display in Washington in a couple of weeks.

SKEPTIC

"So the bright boys at the Bureau of Standards think that all you have to do is wash off Halloween soap markings, eh?" scoffs E. N. Clarke of 3818 W st. se.

"I wonder if they've ever tried it. I have, and washing isn't the answer. You've got to use a razor blade."

FANCY WOMEN

Paula Ferguson of 1325 Fort Stevens dr. nw. observes that our esteemed afternoon contemporary this week stated in its women's section:

"The creamy luster of pearls has captured the fancy women for thousands of years."

Hmmm. So that's what's been happening to all the fancy women.

WARNING! BAD PUNS AHEAD

The other day I reported that several readers had asked me to quit advertising kitten giveaways.

The first reaction has just arrived. I quote:

"Holy cats! What fur? Who you tryin' to kit? You make me so angora. My felines is hurt."

SUNNY CALIFORNIA

C. S. Trimble of 1443 Holly st. nw. sends me a clipping which explains why the Southern California football team is suddenly showing a lot of power.

Among other things, we learn, the men of Troy have been aided by: ". . . the flowering of a half-frozen halfbacks."

Maybe the coach ought to try smudge-pots.

THE CHILDREN THANK YOU

By the time you read this, Children's Hospital will have an additional $5.41 in its building fund. Here's why:

The other day the Potomac Electric Power Co. sent a check for $5.41 and a letter of explanation to Robert M. Balkam of 6822 Standish dr., Landover, Md.

The letter recalled that Pepco had requested a $5 deposit when Mr. Balkam's electric service was begun. Then it added that the company has now decided to refund such deposits to residential customers who have established satisfactory paying habits.

"It is therefore a pleasure," said the letter, "to inclose our check for the amount of your deposit plus accrued interest."

District Liner Balkam forwards the check and letter to me, and adds the notation:

"I'll bet costs are going up faster than contributions are coming in for the new hospital. Why don't you just send this along to Children's?"

DISSENT

"I noticed your item about Clark Clifford looking like Nelson Eddy," writes June Bancroft of 1711 East Capitol st. "Hmmmm. That I would like to see.

"I have been an Eddy admirer for many years, and if any of your District Liners want to join the Nelson Eddy Music Club, they're invited to contact me."

Hmmm yourself, June. After that crack, you needn't expect Clark Clifford to join.

WHICH WAY TO THE "RETURN DESK?"

One of our neighbors was very proud of her new Gibson Girl outfit when she brought it home the other night—but now she's not so sure.

The lady was trying on her skirt and blouse, and had just adjusted the black necktie which the saleslady said furnished the finishing touch, when the 6-year-old daughter of the establishment happened by.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—A British government official revealed this story last night: British agents, carrying transmitters, sometimes were captured behind the German lines. The Nazis then would operate the transmitters and convey false, misleading information. The British then developed a machine which measured the rhythm of the operator's telegraphy. Before an agent was sent on a mission, the rhythm of his telegraphy was measured by this machine, and a record of it was kept on file. Then, when his message started arriving, the sender's entity could be determined by the machine.

This instrument, incidentally, was used in spotting the Nazis message sender who was traveling with Himmler. And when, in the last days, Himmler and this aide drove from town to town, the British knew exactly where the vehicle was, by intercepting the telegraphy identified through the machine. It led to Himmler's capture.

POLITICS: Morrie Ryskind, the librettist and screenwriter, who testified this week before the House Un-American Affairs Committee, spoke out vehemently in 1940 against a third term for Roosevelt. He joined committees, contributed money and spoke whenever he could against a third term and in support of Wendell Willkie . . . Some years later, when Willkie addressed a meeting in Hollywood and discussed Roosevelt's foreign policy, Willkie said: "And in 1940 nobody was more opposed to Roosevelt than I was" . . . "Except," he heard someone on the platform whisper, "except Morrie Ryskind."

THEATER DEPT.: During the Theater Guild of the Air rehearsal of "The Apple of His Eye" Walter Huston told Mrs. Lawrence Langner: "It's been so long since I was in a hit show that I've forgotten what it's like to look over the footlights and see a theater full of people" . . . Mrs. Langner quickly obliged Huston and gave him the opportunity of being onstage in a hit show and seeing a theater full of people. Monday night Walter Huston walked onstage at the Majestic Theater and for one number was a member of the chorus of "Allegro."

LOCAL NEWS: Robert Merrill will make his debut in the title role of "The Barber of Seville" at the Metropolitan Opera November 15 . . . Jimmy Cannon has signed a contract to become the sports columnist for Esquire magazine. His fee is the highest ever paid by the magazine . . . The Un-American Affairs Committee next week will offer proof, unearthed by the FBI, of Communist Party membership of more than a dozen of the Hollywood people subpenaed . . . Lindsay and Crouse, now writing "Life With Mother," have agreed to set aside two complete rows on opening night for those who played fathers and mothers in "Life With Father."
